VON ELM HAS LEAD IN 2ND PLAYOFF

Finishes Morning Round 1 Stroke Ahead of Burke In Thrilling Open Test

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

INVERNESS COUNTRY CLUB, TOLEDO, O., July 6.—George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, finished one stroke ahead of Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., at the end of the first 18 holes today of their amazing second 36-hole playoff for the National Open golf championship title.

They went into Von Elm's lucky eighteenth hole all even, but here Burke took a five against the Californian's par four. Burke required three strokes to make the green, while Von Elm got on with a drive and a long iron.

MORNING CARDS

Here are their cards for the morning round:

Out—

Von Elm..	4	4	3	5	4	4	5	4	5—38
Burke	5	6	3	4	4	4	3	4	4—37

In—

Von Elm..	5	3	5	5	4	4	4	4	4—38—76
Burke	4	4	6	3	4	6	3	5	5—40—77

From start to finish the morning round was a thriller. Von Elm went into the lead at the very outset when Burke tok a 5 on the par 4 first, and a disastrous 6 on the second.

Three strokes ahead at this juncture it seemed as if Von Elm was going to breeze through to an easy victory. But the lion-hearted Burke cut the lead down a stroke on the fourth and evened the match up on thes eventh by sinking a 25-foot putt for a birdie 3.

Burke assumed the lead at the ninth by bagging another birdie, a 4.

Von Elm became two down at the tenth, but he came back valiantly on the eleventh where

Extra Guards Halt Revolt in Prison

THOMASTON, Me., July 6.—(INS.)—The all-night uproar at State Prison appeared under control today.

Because they had been "disciplined"—made to march to the recreation grounds, instead of roaming at will from the dining room to the grounds—the 235 inmates spent most of the night shouting and throwing small stones they had hidden in their pockets and taken to their cells. Extra guards were posted to prevent a "break."

U. S. to Urge Fall Begin Jail Term

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—Government counsel will appear before Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme Court tomorrow morning to ask that Albert B. Fall, formerly Secretary of the Interior, be brought here at once to begin his jail sentence.

District Attorney Rover said that on the basis of a report on Fall's physical condition made by Army physicians in Texas, the government felt the former cabinet officer was able to come here from El Paso to begin serving his sentence of a year.

The report by the Army physicians at William Beaumont Hospital in Texas, made no recommendation, but simply summed up the results of their examination.

Fall's private physicians have said that he could not stand the trip to Washington.

Atlee Pomerene, special prosecutor in the oil scandals, conferred today with Rover and will probably ask that Fall begin his sentence as soon as possible.

MERGER OF BUS LINES NEAR

Merger of the southwestern Pennsylvania bus operations of the Penn Bus Lines, a West Penn Railways subsidiary, and the Pennsylvania General Transit Company, the bus line subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad, were indicated in applications filed today with the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg.

The Penn Bus Company, a Delaware corporation, asked for approval of its purchase of the Penn Bus Lines and informed the commission it soon would ask approval of certain operating rights purchased from the Pennsylvania General Transit.

The latter organization now has an operating agreement with the Penn Bus Line. It was indicated there would be even closer relations between the new company and the General Transit.

West Penn officials said the merger would eliminate conflicting routes of the two old companies and that the new organization would be operated jointly by the P. R. R. and the West Penn.

In addition to the application for approval of the acquisition of the Penn Bus Lines, the Penn Bus Company asked commission sanction of its rights to do business in Pennsylvania and of the following scheduled service routes:

Arno, Reported Wed, Quits Train With Divorcee

CHICAGO, July 6.—(INS.)—Peter Arno, New York artist, whose game of "you-chase-me" with Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., attracted nation-wide attention, was playing hide-and-seek today.

Arno, on his way back to New York, was due here last night, but according to the train conductor left his car with Mrs. Florence Rice Smith, recently divorced daughter of Grantland Rice, the sports writer, at Wheaton, Ill.

After that all is dark. Neither checked into a Chicago hotel or left on a New York train.

Rumors that Arno and Mrs. Smith had married were related by a voluble conductor, but he added that if so, they were on a strange honeymoon, as Arno stayed locked in his compartment all the way from Reno. The conductor did not know details of the marriage.

Since the night Vanderbilt claims he chased Arno down the street with an empty gun, for alleged undue attentions to Mrs. Mary Vanderbilt, both the Vanderbilts have sued for divorce. Lois Long divorced Arno, and Vanderbilt and Arno had a battle of words at the station when the cartoonist started East.

RENO, Nev., July 6.—(AP.)—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., whose self-announced pursuit of Peter Arno, caricaturist, provided newspaper headlines last month, has announced his departure for the East on the artist's trail.

BOMB RAZES HILLTOP STORES

Sleeping Families Periled by Blast; Wreckage Crashes Through Wall of House

Several persons were hurled from their beds and windows in nearby buildings were shattered when an explosion, believed to have been caused by a bomb, wrecked a one-story frame building at 1705 Greenleaf street, Duquesne Heights, at 4 a. m. today.

The building was occupied by a tailor shop operated by Frank Calobria, of 1708 Greenleaf street, and the shoe repair shop of Domonic Casabono, of 221 Republic street.

HURLED FROM BEDS

Calobria, his wife and three children, Peter, 7; Mary, 6, and Constance, 7 months, were hurled from their beds by the force of the blast.

P. J. Schweitzer, his wife and their two sons, Lester, 18, and Walter, 21, living in a two-story frame house at 1707 Greenleaf street, next door to the wrecked building, were thrown into panic when a cornice from the tailor shop was blown through the side of the house, and plaster showered down upon their beds.

Schweitzer is an invalid and the son, Lester, recently recovered from scarlet fever.

WINDOWS SHATTERED

The force of the blast shattered windows in the Schweitzer home and in the home and store of Mrs. Hulda Nelson, at 1710 Greenleaf street.

When firemen and police from Mt. Washington station arrived they found the street in front of the wrecked building crowded with excited people. They immediately began a search of the wreckage in the belief that bodies might be under the debris.

Calobria and Casabono told police they had no idea why the place should be bombed. Calobria has lived in Pittsburgh 20 years, and Casabono since last May. He came here from Cresline, O.

IDA SIMONTON RITES IN N. Y.

Funeral services for Ida Vera Simonton, native Pittsburgh writer, will be held this week in New York, a sister, Mrs. W. R. Berger, of the Fox Chapel road, said today.

Miss Simonton, 60, who wrote "Hell's Playground," said to have been the inspiration for the play "White Cargo," died in New York yesterday after a lingering illness. She has not been in Pittsburgh since June, when she visited her sister. She also leaves two brothers, Joseph and Frank Simonton, in New York.

Noted as a lecturer and author on Africa, where she traveled extensively, Miss Simonton was born in the Hill district here, resided on Franklin street and later moved with her family to Lawrenceville. She attended Ralston school and Pittsburgh high school.

Always interested in writing, she left Pittsburgh 25 years ago, went to Africa and lived among the savage tribes in the French Congo and other regions.

At the time "White Cargo" was produced, Miss Simonton sued the author, Leon Gordon, on the grounds that the play was pirated from her novel, and settled out of court.

British Rulers Wed 38 Years, Honored

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 6.—(AP.)—The Duke and Duchess of York, arriving at Holyrood Palace early today, were the first of the royal family to congratulate King George and Queen Mary on the occasion of their thirty-eighth wedding anniversary.

The first official act of the newly organized Board of Registration Commissioners, which organized today, was to clean house of all the employes of the office except Charles Ebeck, deputy recorder. Ousting of the old-time employes is looked upon by political observers as a direct slap at the Kline-Coyne organization.

All the appointments made today were generally regarded as being personally dictated by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and Secretary of Property and Supplies James F. Malone.

John K. Morrow was elected chairman of the new board, and E. Lowrey Humes, secretary. The other members are Mrs. Sarah Braun and Thomas A. Joyce, the lone holdover from the former board. Morrow and Mrs. Braun are Republicans, the others Democrats.

Churchill Behard was named counsel for the board with a salary of 02,000 a year.

Camille Vinet, 24-year-old pilot seeking a record for passenger planes from Los Angeles to New York, arrived at Bettis Airport at 9:25 a. m., with an actual flying time of 13 hours and 45 minutes.

With him from Indianapolis were Mrs. A. B. McGraw and Nancy Jane McGraw, 18 months.

Word was received from the New York office of the company to hold the plane here, and eBttis Field attaches said the flight would not be continued until late today. Mrs. McGraw departed for New York in another plane shortly before noon.

The plane left Los Angeles at 7:30 a. m. yesterday, but due to bad weather between Indianapolis and Pittsburgh, remained in the Indiana capital last night.

Nancy Jane held to her calico dog and cried behind her mother's skirts. She is to visit her grandmother in New London, Conn. Vinet's destination is North Beach, New York.

COMPROMISE SUBMITTED TO HOOVER

Formula Asks Isolation Of Reparations 'In Kind' From Accord Principle

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT,
International News Service.

PARIS, July 6.—A complete new formula for the settlement of the difficult questions still standing in the way of putting President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal into effect was agreed upon today by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Finance Minister Pierre E. Flandin, International News Service learned today.

Their agreement, of course, subject to the approval of both President Hoover and the full French cabinet.

HOOVER GETS PLAN

The gist of this new agreement was understood to have been transmitted to President Hoover immediately by Secretary Mellon over the trans-Atlantic telephone and Mr. Mellon hoped to have the President's reply in time to present it to the French finance minister before the cabinet meeting breaks up this evening.

International News Service learned that this formula calls for complete separation of the difficult question of German reparations payments "in kind," from the "accord principle." The settlement of the question of payments "in kind" would be left to a New International committee of experts on which Germany would have representation.

U. S. CHANGES STAND

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—Acting Secretary Castle, of the State Department, in a formal statement today said the American government had "no misgivings" that the President's plan for a debt moratorium would become effective.

On instructions of President Hoover, Secretary Mellon presented to the French government today a new and simplified formula which President Hoover

Arctic Hunter Crazed On Seeing First Film

COPENHAGEN, July 6.—(AP.)—His first visit to civilization was too much for Otto Knudsen, Eskimo hunter of the Lauge Koch Arctic expedition, who became violently demented when he saw his first movie at Thorshavn, Faroe Island.

His companions overpowered him and lashed him to his berth in the steamer Tjaldur, which brought him to Copenhagen yesterday.

Lost 12 Hours, Zane Grey Yacht Safe in Port

SAN PEDRO, Cal., July 6.—(INS.)—Missing at sea for more than 12 hours and feared lost, eight boys and six girls, all members of wealthy and prominent families, sailed safely into the harbor today after a night at sea in Zane Grey's famous 50-foot power yacht, the Gladiator.

The boat left Catalina Island late last night and was about nine hours overdue when it landed with all on board safe.

Engine trouble had delayed the Gladiator, it was reported, and in the murky fog that covered the channel waters early today none had sighted the missing craft.

Worried parents had started the Coast Guard on a search for the Gladiator.

Among those aboard, according to Mrs. C. A. Bewley, of Long Beach, were her son and daughter, Fred and Helen Bewley; Harriet Lawson, Frank Walton, Carl Westland and John Young, of Long Beach; Joe Johnson and Lucille Johnson, cousins, of Loma Linda; three boys from Allen College at Richmond, Ind., and three other girls.

GARLAND SEEKS FIREWORKS BAN AS JULY 4 TOLL MOUNTS

ASKS CITY FUND FOR DISPLAY IN PARKS

More Than 250 Victims of Holiday Spur Councilman To Renew Battle Here

With five persons confined to hospitals and more than 250 having been treated at hospitals and emergency stations throughout the country for Fourth of July fireworks accidents, Councilman Robert Garland today threw down the gauntlet in his renewed effort to have the use of fireworks restricted.

Although none of the accidents has yet resulted in deaths the total of injured was much higher than last year.

Garland's comment was:

"I will continue my fight to have the use of fireworks restricted throughout Pittsburgh. I want Council to appropriate enough money to supply the city parks with fireworks, which will be handled with supervision. I want Council to place the fireworks in the parks, where the children can be brought to them instead of bringing the fireworks to the children, with its resultant disaster. This would also do away with much of the fireworks bootlegging which has gone on. Many of the fireworks retailers failed to pay their $50 for profits. I know that Councilman Charles Anderson will also support this movement to remove danger from the children of the community."

HOSPITALS CROWDED

Hospitals were overcrowded Saturday afternoon and night with the victims of blank guns, giant firecrackers and other explosives. Fireworks of the type made legal by recent councilmanic action. The five persons confined to hospitals were reported in serious condition. Fear was expressed by physicians for those who received only minor injuries since tetanus, the result of fireworks injuries, takes two or three days to develop.

Several pedestrians were injured through mischevious or careless throwing of firecrackers.

The number treated in hospitals was:

Mercy Hospital—12 treated; 2 retained.
St. Francis—14 treated.
West Penn—16 treated; 1 retained.
Pittsburgh Italian—6 treated.
Homeopathic—6 treated.
Children's—2 treated.

Nation's Holiday Death List of 483 Sets Record

Associated Press.

The largest number of Fourth of July deaths in recent years occurred in the United States as the nation celebrated the one hundred and fifty-fifth anniversary of its birth.

Close to 500 persons lost their lives from various causes in the two-day celebration. Fatalities from fireworks were six, only one-half of what they were in 1930.

Automobile accidents and drownings were by far more numerous this year. One hundred and sixty persons, lured to the highways, perished in motor car mishaps, compared to 81 last year, while drowning fatalities totaled 181. Almost three times as many persons lost their lives in the water as compared with 1930 when the total was 57. Twenty-four died from the heat, while 14 were killed in airplanes.

The total of deaths from all causes as shown in reports from the entire country gathered by the Associated Press was 483. This was 304 more than died in the 1930 celebration.

believes will meet the entire situation.

It provides that France and the United States agree in principle on the remaining points of difference and that all technical questions and the divergency between the two on payments of reparations in kind "and every other question" be referred to technical experts.

The statement said:

"We have no misgivings that the President's plan will become effective. The French government did not accept our note of July 4, which was published July 5, as the basis for an arrangement.

"They have raised several new questions which have not been hitherto discussed, many of which involve relations between the signatories of the Young plan, to which we are not a party, and which, of course, we cannot pretend to be able to negotiate.

FLOATING OF LOANS

"They also ask our government to undertake obligations in the providing of loans to other governments and to facilitate the floating of securities in the United States, which questions lie entirely outside the province of our government. These suggestions are due, no doubt, to a misunderstanding of our governmental relations to the financial machinery of the country.

"The French government insists that reparations in kind, which involve about $20,000,000 so far as France is concerned, should be distinguished from other reparations.

"It is not so much the $20,000,000 which is involved as the fact that we have already been notified from four or five other governments that they must make exceptions to the President's plan if exceptions are made to anyone. And thus the plan would become very seriously whittled away.

TECHNICAL QUESTION

"The reparations in kind, however, are a very technical question, as are the other questions raised by the French government.

"They all arise from the difficulties lying in the complex character of individual rights to reparations from Germany under the Young plan.

"Mr. Mellon has not felt that we could accept the French note as a basis for settlement as it raised such new and serious difficulties and did not accept the President's plan in principle, which has been done by all the other important governments.

"We have, however, communicated to Mr. Mellon a new and simplified formula which we believe meets the entire situation as it simply provides that we agree in principle on certain major questions, and that all technical questions and reparations in kind and every other question should be referred to a committee of treasury experts of the different powers, who should arrive at a solution of them within the broad spirit of the President's proposal. We feel that it will offer a constructive solution to the various difficulties."

Run on Reichsbank Raises Call Money to 11 Per Cent

BERLIN, July 6.—(INS.)—The Reichsbank lost more than 80,000,000 marks in foreign exchange today and, as the result, the call money rate rose from 9 to 11 per cent.

The continuance of the international and internal flight from the German mark is believed due to French obstruction of President Hoover's moratorium plan.

Today's heavy inroads into the rapidly diminishing reserves of the Reichsbank were believed here chiefly due to cancellations of credit forced by the French to weaken Germany's position and to make her accept French reservations to the Hoover plan.

PAPERS ATTACK VATICAN

ROME, July 6.—(AP.)—Bitter editorial attacks were made against the Pope and the Vatican with the reopening today of the newspaper campaign against the Pontiff and the Catholic Action as a result of the Pontiff's issuance of his Saturday encyclical.

As previous attacks were halted by the government when negotiations began, it was assumed that the new editorial campaign was made with the government's permission.

Lavoro Fasciste says the encyclical was not as great a surprise as the Vatican believed, but that the government knew about it and about plans for its distribution several days before it appeared.

The Pope declares:

"This serves to illuminate the spectacle of a sovereign—and of a sovereign with diplomatic negotiations under way — who launches throughout the world an explosive appeal wherein all elements of debate are passed in judgment and used as points of accusation against the state with which he is treating."

MERCURY FALLS AFTER 10 MORE DIE OF HEAT

More Rains Promised as Showers East and West Bring End to Hot Wave

Ten persons died from the heat during the two day holiday despite steadily falling temperatures and sent the Pittsburgh district total fatalities for the past week to more than 30.

Week-end vacationers found considerable relief from the torrid spell as temperatures halted Saturday at 90 and yesterday at 87, compared with the summer's high of 97 reached Thursday and recordings high in the nineties every day last week.

Cooling rains, expected to reach Pittsburgh yesterday, fell short. They did arrive to the East and West, however, and their effect was noticeable here last night and today.

At 8 a. m. this morning, the weather bureau registered 72, the lowest mark at that hour for five days. At noon the thermometers had risen but two points and at 2 p. m. was only 78. A cool wind added to the relief throughout the district.

RAIN AGAIN PROMISED

Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said rain was certain to reach Pittsburgh today and complete the breaking up of the heat wave. Cooler weather, he said, prevails in the western states, Yellowstone National Park reporting a temperature of 32 this morning.

Yesterday's heat victims were:

FERNAW, H. F., 31, of 548 Spang way, Leechburg. Died in the Allegheny Valley Hospital at Tarentum.

MAHAFFEY, LYNN, 70, of 26 Second street, Dravosburg. Died in the McKeesport Hospital.

McSWIGAN, ARCH, 36, of 2217 Jane street. Died in South Side Hospital.

SILVERMAN, MORRIS, 28, Hill district fish merchant. Died in Passavant Hospital.

UNIDENTIFIED white man, about 40. Found dead in Hill district brick yard.

Fernaw became ill while visiting a relative in Leechburg Saturday night and was taken to the hospital where death occurred yesterday morning.

STRICKEN IN POOL

Mahaffey was stricken while swimming in the McKeesport city pool Saturday and was dragged from the pool by attendants.

McSwigan was picked up in Twenty-first street and taken to the South Side Police Station Saturday afternoon by police who believed he was intoxicated. Several hours later when he became ill he was taken to the South Side Hospital.

Silverman rented a room yesterday afternoon in the home of Benjamin Krieger at 129 Erin street and a short time later rented another room in the home of S. Block at 1804 Center avenue. He had been in the Block residence only a few minutes when he collapsed and was removed to the Passavant Hospital where Dr. D. C. Green stated he had died from heat prostration.

The unidentified man, found in Booth & Flinn's brick yard in Devilliers street, died from the effects of alcoholism, superinduced by heat, it was stated at the morgue.

BURKE, VON ELM IN 2ND PLAYOFF

he sank a 20-footer for a birdie 3 to reduce Burke's lead to a stroke.

BURKE 6 AGAIN

On the 516-yard twelfth, Burke took another six and they were all square.

Misfortune overcame Von Elm on the short thirteenth where he dropped two strokes behind. His tee shot found a trap. As he was shooting his second from the bunker he heard the clicking of a camera. This affected his frayed nerves and he swung too fast and too hard, with the result that he shot the ball over the green into another trap. He was down in 5 while Burke got his par 3.

Trailing by two strokes, Von Elm halved the next and then evened the match up again on the fifteenth when he made par while Burke was running into difficulties. Burke's tee shot was wild and landed in the rough. His second hit a hill on the bank of a creek and his third was in the rough near the fairway. He finally got on in four and was in in 6—Burke's second six of the morning round.

LEAD CHANGES

Burke forged into the lead again at the 16th by clicking off a neat birdie 3. He lost the stroke on the next hole when he took a 5. They went into the final hole all even. This hole has been lucky for Von Elm. It was here he shot a birdie 3 on Saturday evening to tie Burke for the lead in the national open with an aggregate score of 292. It was here that he bagged another birdie 3 late yesterday to tie Burke at 149 strokes for their first 36-hole playoff.

Von Elm didn't get a birdie on the eighteenth this time, but he did get his par. Burke slipped when he flubbed his second shot and required three to make the green. His five gave the Californian the edge again and they went to the clubhouse with Von Elm leading by a stroke.

The afternoon round was scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. The small gallery which started this morning was greatly augmented later in the forenoon and indications were that Von Elm and Burke will be dragging a huge gallery in the afternoon when the denouement will come.

WORLD FLIERS HONORED IN CAPITAL

Post and Gatty Guests at White House After Trip Through Cheering Crowds

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty were welcomed to Washington today to receive official recognition from President Hoover for their round-the-world exploit.

The fliers who girdled the world in less than nine days arrived by train shortly after noon and went immediately to the White House where they were luncheon guests of the President.

With them were their wives and financial backer, F. C. Hall, as they received a short greeting before being whisked away around the Capitol and up Pennsylvania avenue to the White House.

POSE WITH PRESIDENT

The executive office was their first stop. There military and naval aides had been placed in charge of ceremonies, which included posing with President Hoover on the south lawn for pictures.

A crowd had gathered at the station to welcome them, but only a welcoming committee was allowed under the train shed.

The party was greeted at the train by Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautic Association, who introduced the visitors to the rest of the committee.

Several hundred persons had gathered about the White House to cheer them upon their arrival there.

FOG BALKS FLIGHT

NEW YORK, July 6.—(INS.)—Fog, rain and adverse winds today caused indefinite postponement of another trans-Atlantic flight, the hop to Budapest, planned by Capt. Alexander Magyar and Capt. George Endres in the Lockheed-Vega monoplane Justice for Hungary.

The fliers were up at dawn and had their plane fueled and ready for the first leg of the flight, the trip to Harbor Grace. Heavy rain began falling at 5:30 o'clock and the fog thickened.

Shortly after 6 o'clock the fliers announced that they would postpone the take-off until the weather cleared.

TOKIO HOP DELAYED

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, July 6.—(AP.)—Fliers of the plane which is to refuel the monoplane Fort Worth on its projected non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokio planned to take off today for Hazleton, B. C., from the headwaters of the Naas River, Northern British Columbia, where they were forced down Saturday by fog.

Meanwhile, the crew of the Fort Worth, Reginald L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, were in Seattle uncertain when they could take off on their attempt to reach Tokio by air. They explained their takeoff would be delayed until the refueling plane reached Fairbanks. They intend to refuel in the air over Fairbanks, again at Solomon, near Nome, and a third time in Siberia.

TOKIO SEA FLIER AGAIN CRASHES

TOKIO, July 6.—(AP.)—The second airplane which was being prepared for Seiji Yoshihara, Japanese aviator, to make a good will flight to the United States, was badly damaged in a trial flight today.

The newspaper, Hochi, sponsor of the flight, announced that the aircraft in which Yoshihara flew from Berlin to Tokio would be reconditioned and sent to Numero so the trans-Pacific project may continue.

Yoshihara cracked up his first plane in the Kurile Islands in May while on his way across the Pacific in short hops. The reconditioned plane will be the third craft used in his attempt to span the Pacific.

Berkman Again Ordered Deported From France

PARIS, July 6.—(AP.)—Alexander Berkman, deported from the United States with Emma Goldman in 1919 for radical activities, faces expulsion from France after three months.

The government has issued an order for his deportation, but has granted him a suspension in order to investigate his conduct more thoroughly.

He denied he had been dabbling in politics and insisted France had no reason to order him from the country. He said:

"When any French government feels it is about to fall, they renew my order of suspension. Now that Pierre Laval's cabinet seems destined to stay I am likely to stay, too. Why should France be afraid of an international literary ghost?"

Berkman has been ordered deported from France three times. He was sent to Belgium in 1930, but was allowed to return on the strength of friends' intervention.

Rip Tides Fatal to Score On California Coast

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—(AP.)—A possible death toll of 20 persons was charged today to rip tides which swept beaches in this area over the week-end.

As the holiday crowds, numbering hundreds of thousands, spread along nearly 50 miles of winding seacoast, lifeguards kept a close watch for bodies.

Seventeen persons were listed as having perished in the tides Saturday, although not all bodies had been recovered. This heavy toll served to warn Sunday bathers. The treacherous tides continued yesterday, when three were reported missing from the beaches.

Lifeguards described the rip tides as currents flowing out to sea like swift rivers. They were unable to agree on what causes them, but said they flow at varying angles from the shore; are a few yards to 100 yards in width and continue to exert their "pull" for 30 feet to a quarter of a mile. The tides appear infrequently.

GARY, Ind., July 6.—(INS.)—Beaches near Gary were closed today after seven had been drowned in Lake Michigan's undertow.

MINE RADICALS WILL PICKET U.S. PARLEY

Men, Women and Children Ordered to Washington by National Miners' Union

Tri-state miners, their wives and children will go to Washington and picket the government-sponsored operators-miners conference if it is held there on July 9, Frank Borich and Vincent Kemenovich, leaders of the National Miners' Union, the radical branch of the strikers' organizations, announced today.

The picketing, they said, will be in protest against the government's attempt to "trustify" the bituminous coal industry.

PARLEY ASSAILED

A statement attacked such a conference as a "strike-breaking" move designed to "make the whole field a Facist camp in which the miners take more more wage cuts, more cheating on coal weights, still worse living conditions and more mass starvation."

P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, the conservative wing of the strikers, indorsed the holding of such a conference. He said:

"The average operator has come to a realization of the strong influence toward rehabilitation of the industry exerted by the United Mine Workers of America. The conference should be conducive of much good to the operators and miners."

STATE OBSERVER

Gov. Gifford Pnchot today notified Coroner W. J. McGregor he would have an observer, Stephen Rauchenbush, at the inquest tomorrow into the death of Pete Zigarac, killed ina riot at Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company, June 22. 23,000 Kanawha Miners Called Out; Zone Quiet

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 6.—(AP.)—A strike call by the West Virginia Mine Workers to coal miners in the Kanawha County coal field became effective today, but definite figures as to the response awaited a check-up of the opposing sides. State police reported all quiet throughout the district.

At union headquarters it was said that C. F. Keeney, president of the West Virginia Mine Workers, was "enthusiastic" about the response to the call and that all reports received were "favorable."

D. C. Kennedy, secretary of the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association, said he was checking up on the situation and would have a statement later in the day.

Union headquarters estimated 23,000 miners would be affected.

A score or more of student and radical leaders were under arrest on accusations by the secret police that shipments of arms have been distributed in anticipation of executing a well-laid plot against the government.

Herbert C. Belcher, well browned by many days of scorching sun, called at police headquarters, and told Lieut. James Peck he had hiked all the day from Douthan to give himself up. He said:

"A missionary came to my home town a while back and induced me to give up my evil life, so I am here to clear my conscience.

"Twelve years ago in Cleveland I stole a bicycle."

Lieut. Peck improvised a court and heard Belcher's story. When the story was ended he said:

"You are forgiven—case dismissed."

With a sigh, the man started back for home.

CAB ATTACKERS ESCAPE SHOTS OF POLICE

Flee After Stoning Four Taxis on North Side; Driver Hurt in Carson St.

Police today were searching for an automobile occupied by five men who escaped the gun fire of two policemen at Chestnut and Canal streets, North Side, shortly after midnight. One of the occupants was believed to be wounded.

The men drove to the corner and stoned four taxicabs, police of the North Side station were told. Sergt. Michael Dougherty requested the cab company to send two cabs to the corner. A scout ca occupied by Patrolmen George Molter and Frank Walton followed them.

One of the men in the car threw a milk bottle at the first cab. When the scout car drove up and the policemen got out, the driver of the car sped away. Both officers fired at it, then gave chase, losing the trail in Troy Hill, several miles from the scene of the shooting.

DRIVER CUT

Harry Holton, a Yellow cab driver, suffered a cut on his head when his cab was stoned at South Twenty-third and Carson streets last night, police reported. Holton sped his cab from the barrage and notified South Side police who failed to find the men.

A Yellow cab, stolen from Fifth avenue and Seneca street yesterday was found wrecked on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks below Griffith street, Greenfield, 15 minutes later. The cab was stolen while the driver was inquiring about an address, police said. The machine was said to have been driven over an embankment.

While the driver was attempting to learn who had called for a taxicab, several young men leaped into the machine which was parked in front of a physician's office in Lincoln avenue extension, Penn Township, and drove away. A short time later the cab was found in a ditch near the Lincoln avenue extension, about a mile from where it had been stolen, according to Constable Samuel Bickerstaff.

Chicago society has been agog over the plans of the well-known couple, but only Harold F. McCormick, the bridegroom's father, was at the municipal airport to greet them.

The three drove to the Drake Towers, where Fowler has an apartment, only a short distance from the home of his mother, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

NOBILE TO SEEK AMUNDSEN

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., July 6.—(AP.)—Gen. Umberto Nobile, Italian explorer who commanded the dirigible Italia, will be aboard the Russian ice-breaker Maligin when she sails for Archangel, July 15, for an expedition into the Far North. He hopes that he may find Roald Amundsen and the missing men of the Italia expedition.

Many Arctic experts have expressed a belief in the possibility that the six men of the dirigible's crew who are missing, as well as Amundsen and his aide, who disappeared after flying to the rescue of the Italia, may be found in the region of Cape Flora.

This hope is based on information supplied by the American explorer, Anthony Fiala, who said he left a store of provisions on Rudolf Island during a previous expedition and told Amundsen of the cache before Amundsen went to the aid of the Italia. It is believed certain that Amundsen made for the store if he was able, possibly taking the Italia survivors with him.

GIRL BELIEVED ABDUCTED BY AUTOISTS

Mother Tells of Shadowing By Mysterious Strangers After Troth Is Broken

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Believed the victim of kidnapers, Evelyn Wilson, beautiful 23-year-old actress, was sought by police today. They said they were investigating a reported plot to kidnap the girl for a $10,000 ransom.

Miss Wilson, said to be one of the prettiest girls on the American stage, disappeared early yesterday while attending a party at the home of relatives.

TRAILED BY STRANGERS

Her black silk purse, found in the gutter in the neighborhood where she was last seen, indicated to police she might have been forced into an automobile and driven off by kidnapers.

The young actress' mother told the authorities she had broken an engagement to marry two months ago and that recently she had been followed by two strange men.

In the girl's purse were $5.74, cosmetics and an address book containing the names and addresses of three motion picture stars, Richard Dix, Grant Withers and Buddy Rogers.

STAR IN SEVERAL HITS

According to Mrs. Anna Wilson, the girl's mother, she had accompanied her daughter to the home of another daughter to attend a family party. At 1 o'clock in the morning Mrs. Wilson said she complained of a headache, and Evelyn left for a nearby drug store to obtain a remedy. An elevator operator directed her to a drug store. He was the last person to see the missing actress.

A few days ago the girl withdrew $2,000 from a bank and later noticed two men following her at various times, her mother told police. Miss Wilson appeared here in several Broadway hits. She recently returned to New York from Hollywood, where she had played.

LONDON STILL LARGEST CITY

LONDON, July 6.—(AP.)—London still is the world's largest city by a margin of more than 1,000,000 inhabitants over New York.

Metropolitan London, containing the "outer ring," which corresponds to that known as Greater New York, has a population of 8,202,818, preliminary summaries of the census taken April 26, indicate.

The population of Greater New York in the last United States census was 6,981,917, or 1,220,901 less than its British rival.

Population of England and Wales totals 39,947,931. This figure exceeds that of the 1921 census by 2,061,232. The new total shows 19,138,844 males and 20,809,087 females.

Birmingham is the largest city outside of London, with a population of more than 1,000,000. Liverpool is second and Manchester third.

The population figures are largest yet recorded in this country and the real density, representing 685 persons per square mile, is far higher than that of any other country whose records are available, with the possible exception of Belgium.

The registrar general notes that this country now ranks low in birth rate than any other except Sweden and that the present rate is definitely insufficient to retain a stationary population in the future.

CHICAGO LABOR SEEKS HEARST PLAN ACTION

Federation Asks Prosperity Loan Steps to Forestall [illegible] of Unemployment

[illegible] Universal Service.

CHICAGO, July 6.—In the hope of forestalling a winter of unemployment, delegates to the Chicago Federation of Labor today demanded early action by the government on the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan plan suggested by William Randolph Hearst.

The resolution, adopted unanimously, said:

"William Randolph Hearst has proposed a government loan of $5,000,000,000 to relieve the depression which he attributed to overcapitalization and failure of industry to give labor an adequate share of the increased profits.

"Arthur Brisbane has written that in New York and other large cities unemployed workers are carrying banners demanding 'Work or unemployment insurance.'"

The resolution further stated:

"The economic depression has reached a stage where it deserves serious and sincere consideration by the thinking people of the nation, because it is conservatively estimated that 10,000,000 wage earners are vainly searching for work, and from present indications this army of unemployed is growing larger every day."

Continuing, the resolution said President Hoover's prediction 18 months ago that prosperity would return in 90 days has not materialized.

The resolution was presented by Ben Parker, president of Chicago Waiters' Alliance, Local 25.

At the same time the delegates voted to ask the American Federation of Labor to forego its convention slated for Vancouver in October, and to hold it instead in Chicago in connection with a labor unemployment conference and demonstration.

The date of the Chicago meeting was tentatively set for September 7.

Another New Idea for the Butter Business

—which will probably soon be widely imitated. When Donahoe's smashed prices on coffee, butter, eggs, meats, canned foods, and ice cream, imitators sooner or later followed suit—but since "Imitation Is the Sincerest Form of Flattery," we thank them. Here's another idea—not so easy to adopt—but one that would benefit the People of Pittsburgh.

WHITE MAGIC

DRY ICE • THE WONDER REFRIGERANT

114° Below Zero! 146° Colder Than Ice

The Marvelous Dry Ice Again Works for Donahoes!

First with Ice Cream! Now with Butter!

Five years ago, Donahoe's introduced Dry Ice—not only to Pittsburgh—but to the United States at large. Wherever the Pittsburgh newspapers went, carrying the Donahoe advertisements, there went the story of Dry Ice. Thousands of merchants in hundreds of cities had never heard of Dry Ice and we were kept busy telling them what it was, how much it cost and where to get it.

Five years ago, Dry Ice was regarded by most of the few who knew about it as an interesting novelty—a scientific plaything—but Donahoe's, quickly visioning its adaptability for packing Ice Cream, were the first to put it to use in Pittsburgh and one of the very first in the entire country. Now, with an adequate supply of Dry Ice available, Donahoe's have found another—and wider—use for it.

No More Soft Butter when the mercury soars— Dry Ice Will Keep DONAHOE'S BUTTER Hard for Two (2) Hours —or longer—on the Hottest Day

Now—on the very hottest day—the kind of day that melts the butter you buy almost to a liquid before you get it home—

You can buy your butter—the Finest Churned in America—at Donahoe's and—When you unwrap it, several hours afterward, to place it in your refrigerator—You will be delighted to find—no melted, softened mess of butter—but neat, sweet, clean cut, absolutely hard-chilled butter.

Two small pieces of Dry Ice —wrapped with your butter at no extra cost to you— —Real White Magic—have done marvelous cooling work

It is impossible for butter, wrapped in the ordinary manner, to remain hard or firm, if carried around, even for a short time, in hot weather.

Once butter is melted or softened, it is never again the same—even when rehardened.

Not only is there an alteration in its physical condition—the firm smooth texture, with its clean, sweet, golden appearance is gone—but also, and most important—that intangible something with which all fine butter is so richly endowed, the flavor, the aroma, the exquisite bouquet, is released and most of it disappears once butter has been softened and rehardened.

The softening and rehardening of fine butter does not spoil it—but, most assuredly, the softening and rehardening does take away the "bloom" from a piece of fine butter—it often leaves a flat taste, flavor has flown. The butter no longer is "imprisoned fairy gold from nature's richest storehouse."

DONAHOE'S BUTTER— finest churned in America— is now under refrigeration from the churn to your refrigerator at home

When you leave Donahoe's Downtown Stores with a package of Donahoe's Butter—

You carry the most marvelous modern refrigeration right with you in the package—two small pieces of Dry Ice, weighing practically nothing—no big bulky package—it is easy to carry. No moisture—Dry Ice does not melt, it evaporates.

Take Home the BEST Butter in Pittsburgh—the finest sold in the entire U. S.— Package Refrigerated with Dry Ice, No Extra Charge

P. S.—Small Extra Charge if you desire sufficient Dry Ice to keep butter hard chilled for more than two hours.

What Dry Ice Is— and What It Does

DRY ICE is nothing more nor less than your old friend carbon dioxide, which is used every day in the carbonated beverages you drink—soda water, ginger ale, etc., but DRY ICE is carbon dioxide compressed until it becomes solid. Then it resembles a mass of hard, white snow crust.

There is no drip to DRY ICE. It gives off a vapor-like, harmless, dry gas which never condenses into moisture. The evaporating gas reduces the size of the cake so slowly that the process is imperceptible. Nor does the mass "melt" in the ordinary sense, but gradually—very gradually—it diminishes, meanwhile radiating intense cold and leaving no trace.

Touch DRY ICE and you get a start, because DRY ICE is 114 degrees below zero, 146 degrees Fahrenheit colder than ice.

STALIN IN NEW RETREAT TO CAPITALISM

Dictator's Proposal to Drop Red System of Wages Before Communist Meet

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, July 6. — The plenary session of the executive committee of the Communist party, which opened yesterday here, today had under consideration Josef Stalin's proposal for another retreat towards capitalism.

Stalin, who as secretary general of the Communist Party is virtual dictator of Soviet Russia, yesterday published in Pravda and Izvestia, Moscow's semi-official newspapers, a sensational address which he made June 23 before the State Planning Board.

In that speech the proletarian dictator went on record as favoring a return to the principle of inequality of wages and abandonment of the Marxist idea that everyone should receive wages in accordance with his needs. If the Red ruler's ideas are adopted, it will mean that Russians will be paid according to their ability, rather than according to their needs.

Stalin also urged abandonment of commission rule of state trusts in favor of single responsible directors and advised re-admission of engineers of Czarist Russia into industry. Another important point of Stalin's address was his disapproval of the five-day week in factories and proposal to substitute the six-day week of capitalistic countries. Abandonment of 'con-' tinuous operation of plants where it had proved unsatisfactory also was advocated.

Death Takes Noted Civic, And Industrial Leader Visiting Mother on Holiday

Truman P. Gaylord, 60, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and former president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, was stricken with a heart attack and died yesterday while playing golf during a visit to his mother in Shelby, Mich., his boyhood home. Funeral services will be held in Shelby Wednesday.

Mr. Gaylord left Pittsburgh last Thursday to visit his home over the Fourth, intending to return to Pittsburgh today.

Besides his wife he leaves his mother, a daughter, Miss Marion Gaylord, his brother, John Gaylord, and a sister, Miss Gladys Gaylord, both of Chicago.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER

He was born in Shelby, February 5, 1871, and was educated in Allen Academy, Chicago; the University of Michigan and the Armour Institute of Technology, Chicago.

The Chicago World's Fair was starting when Mr. Gaylord went to work for the Fair Company as engineer of underground construction and he continued in that capacity from 1892 to 1893. At the close of the World's Fair, he became assistant professor of electrical engineering at the Armour Institute, serving from 1893 to 1898. He was engineer of the Chicago Edison Company in 1898 and 1899, and took his first job with the Westinghouse Electric Company in July, 1899. In 1902 he was appointed district manager with offices in Chicago, which he held until August, 1914, when he was made acting vice president. He was elected vice president April 24, 1929.

HEADED TRADE BODY

Mr. Gaylord traveled extensively in Mexico. He was a golf player and was interested in horseback riding.

He was a director of the Chamber of Commerce in 1926, and in 1927 was elected president, serving two years.

He was a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Duquesne Club and the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

WOMAN HANGS SELF ON TRAIN

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—The body of a woman about 65 years old was found hanging yesterday in the washroom of one of the cars of a Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh train while the train was nearing Buffalo. A card found in the woman's effects bore the name Mrs. May Yusko. She boarded the train at Pittsburgh, Pa.

The conductor called a passenger physician as soon as the discovery was made, but the woman was dead. She had constructed a crude noose by tying together a handkerchief and strips from her clothes and had attached it to a hook.

The body was taken to the Buffalo morgue.

Members of two Yusko families in Pittsburgh were unable to throw any light on the identity of the hanging victim.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, July 6.

HAROLD WAS ONE of those disappointed actors who stand on the corner of Forsty-seventh street and Broadway and pan everything in the world but themselves. Each one of them has a story, and the only trouble with most of these stories is that they are all pretty much the same. Disappointment and self-advertisement form the basis of each. Harold's case, however, is just a little different. Listen:

At the age of 40 Harold was nowhere. He had left that small town in Ohio some 20 years before with the announcement that he was going to become a great vaudeville star. His friends had told him that he could sing and dance better than any gosh-durn vaudeville actor they had ever seen. Harold was certain then that they were right. Twenty years later, he was still certain. But he was the only one.

To understand this true yarn, you must understand the souls of these disappointed vaudevillians. If their salary is $75 a week, they will turn soda jerkers or waiters before they will accept a penny less for a stage engagement. They all carry faded clippings that tell how good they were in Walla Walla, Wash.

When one of them rises to the top, the rest are unable to understand it. They talk bitterly of the breaks and insist that each one among them has more talent than the one who arrived. They talk shop at all times. Consider, for instance, one of Harold's conversations as he stands in front of the United Cigar store on his favorite corner.

"Can't understand it. Those bookers don't know what they're doing. They had a chance to give me a break in Perth Amboy last week and, at the last minute, what do you suppose happens? They put Smith in instead. Smith, mind you! I wouldn't care if it was somebody decent, but that bum can't do a thing.

"Oh, well. I suppose he agreed to work for next to nothing. Anybody at all can get a job that way. You don't catch me chopping my salary for anyone. No, sir."

Well, aside from minor changes, that's the way the years slipped by. A few bookings here; a few bookings there. A week's engagement on the road and two weeks of idleness on his favorite corner.

One thing, however, Harold never forgot to do. Back in his head was the notion that he wanted to return in triumph to that town in Ohio. Whenever he received a favorable line in an out-of-town newspaper, he never failed to send it on to the home sheet. The town was thriving considerably, but most of the folks still retained old-fashioned ideas. A line in a paper meant a great deal to them. And since Harold was receiving favorable comment, they were sure he was a great success.

At the age of 40 Harold found himself working in a restaurant in the east 20's. Bookings were practically at a standstill, and he had been forced to take this job in order to eat. As he stood gloomily at a table one night an idea came to him.

He wanted so much to get another peek at the old town. Now that he was growing older, the desire was stronger than ever. And since going back as a failure was out of the question, why not go back as a pretended success.

It would be quite simple. He would work steadily at this humble job until he had accumulated enough money to present a front. Then, with sufficient money in his pocket to carry him through, he would visit the old spot and live in high style until he wished to come back to New York. How, then, would they know that he was anything else but a success?

Six months later found Harold stepping off a train in the town in which he was born. . . .

His reception was far greater than he had anticipated. He found himself the envy of all his old friends. Most of them had prospered, but none of them had seen the things that Harold had. Here was a man who had lived!

He had been in the town but three days when a committee called upon him at his hotel. They were all old friends, all local businessmen and all quite proud of Harold.

They had a plan that was very simple. If Harold was agreeable, they would like to put up enough money to give their city some decent shows. Harold would manage the entire thing and, as compensation, could have any share of the profits he suggested. Was he interested?

The man played the game in beautiful style. He said he would do his best to get his managers to agree. If he could gain their consent, he would sacrifice himself for his old pals. He would put on some of the finest Broadway plays and employ local talent. He would give his city the finest things in the theater.

You can just about imagine how hard it was for Harold to get his managers to agree to have him remain in Ohio. In a short while, by judicious use of the subscription plan, the theater was sold out for several weeks. And before Harold had opened his first stock play he was already counting his profits.

Working with amateurs and small-time assistants, Harold was in his natural environment. He stole every trick he had ever seen in any bill and put it on his stage. Most of it was new stuff to those folks and, inasmuch as everybody in the cast was a personal friend, the man couldn't go far wrong. And he didn't.

At the close of the season Harold was just about the biggest man in town. The final blowoff arrived in the shape of a big dinner in his honor. Everybody turned out, and the speeches that were tossed off were classics of the age. Harold was every genius the stage had ever known, rolled into one.

Toward the close of the affair the toastmaster arose. He tossed a few bouquets on top of all the garbage that had gone before and then drew a document from his pocket.

"Harold," he said, "it was grand of you to do what you did for our town. We know that you have big things to do in New York, but we don't want to take a chance of losing you. I have a contract for next season that doubles the financial arrangements you made this year. We want you back without fail. Will you sign it now?"

Harold stood up. Anyone in the world, aside from a vaudevillian, would have nailed that contract at once. But Harold was in that one class. Those 20 years on the Broadway corners had made a mark that could never be eradicated.

"Gentlemen," he asserted, "it is wonderful of you to be so thoughtful. You must remember, however, that the big time is calling me. By remaining as long as I have I'm afraid I have already hurt my reputation. And that, as you know, is an artist's greatest loss.

"Thank you for the great honor. But I cannot chance this again next season. My public will not permit it."....

So Harold is back on Forty-seventh street and Broadway. He has money now, but he's still angling for vaudeville dates. No matter what happens to him now he will die happy.

Because, back home, nobody knows that his only public is all the other Harolds.....

Charles Bickford May Play Lead in Mr. Le Baron's New Picture Idea

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.

Dozens of stories could be written around the drama of Boulder Dam. As yet, however, R-K-O is the first film company to tap this rich, new field.

Myles Connolly, associate producer, has written a story against the background of the great national project, and the first scenes will be shot on the day the engineers begin blasting.

Charles Bickford

In the meanwhile, Director Paul Sloane is interviewing actors for the cast. It is a strong possibility that Charles Bickford, stormy petrel of Hollywood, will have a leading role.

No doubt many a rival producer will regret that William LeBaron got the jump on this idea. With all the publicity that has been given the dam, the exploitation possibilities of the picture are unlimited.

THE NEXT STEP

Says Eddie (Stock-Market) Cantor:

"Well, Mr. Hoover has removed the cause of the depression. Now if we can only remove the depression, everything will be swell."

LATEST GOSSIP

Back in my home town you used to get classmates to autograph your high school annual. Out in Hollywood they do it differently. Ever since school was out, youthful graduates have been haunting the studio gates, begging actors to autograph their yearbooks . . . Ricardo Cortez has a brother, Stanley, who is an assistant cameraman at Pathe . . . John Miljan plays the first sympathetic role of his career in "Hell Divers." Maybe it's the effect of all the publicity about his raising fancy goldfish . . . There is justice. Paramount's film "The Lawyer's Secret" had five featured leads, and there was only three feet difference in the footage each got in the final cutting. . . . Today's puzzle is the following excerpt from a studio biography:

John Miljan

"Warren William, former stage leading man, now a Warner Brothers featured player, went on the stage because he longed to be a marine engineer, but his father wanted him to be a newspaperman."

Must have been a draw.

IT'S A FACT

It is not too technical to be interesting, perhaps, that closeups of players like Wallace Beery are developed in soft water, while those of feminine players require hard water. This has been found to intensify rugged and delicate features respectively. The method is considered important enough at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the new laboratory to be equipped with a complete water-conditioning plant. Every lab room has four faucets—one for hard water, one for soft, one for hard warm and a fourth for soft warm.

RIGHT FROM THE HEART

Finding Roland West in a gloomy mood, a friend jibed:

"Well, do you think the picture business still is in its infancy?"

"No," replied West, tartly, "but the people who are running it certainly are."

'Men of the Sky' Current Harris Feature

The romance of the men who fly to fame or death in the clouds is presented in "Men of the Sky," now on the Harris screen. Irene Delroy and Jacke Whiting have leading roles. Another feature is "In Old Cheyenne," with Rex Lease.

Prince Offers Prize At Towanda Game

TOWANDA, Pa., July 6.—(AP.)—Prince and Princess Svasti, mother and father of the Queen of Siam, and three sons left for New York last night after visiting David E. Kaufman, United States minister to Siam, and Morgan S. Kaufman, Scranton, three days at their home here. Mrs. Wabel Walker Willebrandt and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Lowman, Washington, other guests, left for Washington, D. C.

Prince Svasti watched a baseball game between Towanda and Wyalusing. The prince's interest in the game ran so high at one point he walked on the field and offered $25 to any Towanda player who would hit a home run. Mrs. Willebrandt pitched the first ball in the game.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Robert Fiske, who has seen 'em all come and go in George Sharp's stock company, and is marking time until George comes back in September, was anticipating a family reunion as a Fourth of July event. His little daughter, aged 10, was coming home from a private school, and Bob was saying that both Mrs. Fiske (Catherine Maison) and himself were all pepped up because the family would again be complete. Does that agree with your idea of Bohemian life you think the actor lives? Most of them really are home lovers. That's one reason why Bob says he likes stock, with all its hard work. It gives him a chance to have a permanent home, instead of the transitory abode in a truck, the proverbial domicile of the strolling player. Of course, Mr. Fiske has experienced that, too, but his preference is for stock, even though it does entail the daily rehearsal of one play and the nightly performance of another rehearsed the week previous. Hugh Banks, Mr. Fiske believed, was still in Buffalo, but he had heard the company there went on the rocks because of leading woman trouble. Paul McGrath and the missus, Edna Hubbard, had gone to White Plains for a summer stock engagement. Alice Anne Baker — more domesticity — was cottaging it in New England. Ann Forrest and sister, Mabel Kroman, were with Mr. Sharp in New York, Ann having signed for a coming production.

Small Timer, sniffing, remarks that when the onion is performing its dual feat of taking one up physically and dragging one down socially, the process is one of a-scent and de-scent.

* * *

Mme. Nazimova, the revered Theater Guild informs us, has been signed for one of the parts in Eugene O'Neill's three-ply play, "Mourning Becomes Electra," which will need three nights for complete presentation, although each part is a separate drama in itself.

Small Timer says it may be true there is no such word as "can't," but just try attempting to strike a match on a piece of soap.

Mr. Barrymore Real Star In Penn

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Teddy Joyce, back at mastering ceremonies again for a week in the Penn, and Norma Shearer, on the screen of the same theater in "A Free Soul," proved a magnet of sufficient strength to stand the customers up by the time the first show of the new bill opened.

"A Free Soul" is a tawdry, artificial story, but oh, folks, what a dramatic punch it packs! That, of itself, is complete compensation for a tale that doesn't seem to ring true to nature. But it does ring true in a strictly theatrical sense, and it gives Miss Shearer a fine opportunity to be both gay and deeply emotional.

BARRYMORE IS STAR

Lionel Barrymore, however, no matter whose name is featured, is the star of the piece. Lionel, you know, quit acting some time back to become a director. After seeing him in "A Free Soul" you will say let someone else do the directing, but keep Lionel Barrymore acting as long as possible. He is so human as a brilliant lawyer whose career is darkened by intemperance that you just take to him. And admire him to the point of wishing to shout when, in court, he reveals his own shortcomings as the real reason for a murder committed to save his daughter from shame.

Miss Shearer is the daughter, a girl whose character is shaped by her father, who teaches her to live her life her own life, and if she falls, to get up and fight. This philosophy leads to difficulties and dramatic tensity, in which Miss Shearer shines every moment. Leslie Howard and Clark Gable give fine account of themselves as the two men in her life.

OVATION FOR TEDDY

Teddy Joyce received an ovation on his first appearance to introduce the stage performers in "Hello Teddy" and to sing and dance as his own contribution to the program. It includes the specialties of the Joyce Rhythm Steppers, six dancing boys, Rosse and Edwards, Ballett and Lamb, and the Chester Hale dancing girls. Dick Leibert disguises himself and makes the organ speak in terms of opera.

The Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter describes the flight and landing of Post and Gatty as Hearst Metrotone News pictures the great reception for them on completion of their trip around the world. Skiing in Colorado in the summer on snow hauled from the mountains is among the oddities in the news reel.

Broad Mind, Grin Fill Stanley

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Joe E. Brown is back in the Stanley. This time with a mind as broad as his grin. In proof, we sight the film title, "Broadminded."

But Joe isn't the only broadminded thing about the production. If you ask us, the dialogue is pretty wide also.

When the wealthy young hero of the affair is sent away by his father for being a bad boy, with none other than Mr. Brown as guardian, said hero suggests they go abroad. But Joe cracks back with the wisey, "Your father said no women," so they go to California.

THREE BLONDES

And there are plenty women! Three blondes, all sun-kissed, and one brunet, who comes trailing them from the East.

There also is the aristocratic aunt of one of the girls. She's not very enthusiastic about the hero and his pal, Brown. Brown, however, is unperturbed. He tells her funny stories and he slaps her on the back. In fact, he does everything but fulfill his boast that "he steps on ants."

The picture opens with a baby party. Its a scream. Joe is there in a bonnet and a baby-buggy.

SUPPORTING CAST

The supporting cast includes Ona Munson, Marjorie White, Bela Lugosi, Margaret Livingston and Thelma Todd.

The film makes for a lot of broad laughs.

Fourth of July gets a break in the Dave Broudy overture. Bernie Armstrong has a lively organ-logue. More music is on the stage with the appearance of Helen Lewis and her 12 Musical Maids. They put on a good show. Five other entertainers are featured, including dancers and singers. Dick Powell is present also, with a song and a smile.

Young Stars In Fulton, Sheridan

By MILDRED FILLMORE

One of the happiest pictures to come out of Hollywood is "Forbidden Adventure," current feature in both the Fulton and Sheridan Square. There is the dramatic complex of childhood to this new picture. It has those talented juveniles, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl, in its cast. Also there are those two grownup actresses of talent and comedy, Edna May Oliver and Louise Fazenda.

The story concerns the ambitious mothers of two children who succeed in pushing their youngsters into the movie spotlight and then trot them off to Europe to hobnob with a boy king in an effort to keep the children's names on the front page. They figure it's a great publicity idea.

Well, the grownup royalty doesn't go in for the Hollywood stuff. But the boy king and the two kid stars get together. They all run away and have a grand time with a waterfront gang of youngsters. Then hoodlums kidnap the boy king, and everything is in an uproar. But the kid gang comes to the rescue, and all is grand at the end, with a touch of wistfulness and frogs, which turn out to be toads.

The picture is highly entertaining and well conceived. It is based on Sinclair Lewis' story, "Let's Play King."

The Loudspeaker

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, July 6.—Writing a song that will charm the ears and tickle the toes is not the simple matter it seems. It requires a special knack. Only a few have mastered it to the point where it spells fame and fortune.

From time to time the maestros who invite you to the dance are asked by aspiring fans how the trick is done. Many of them have tried and failed. Many of them believe there is a charmed circle of songmakers and that none but a favored few can participate in the royalty melons that are cut by the publishers about four times a year.

B. A. Rolfe ought to know something about popular songs, he has been playing them long enough. His one philosophy about them is that they must have universal appeal. Ability to write beautiful poetry or to create divine melodies won't help the would-be songwriter. He must, as Rolfe says, get down to earth even though a good part of songwriting success is based upon phenomena far above the earth—the moon, the sun, the stars. Hark to Prof. Rolfe!

* * *

"The average popular song is 32 bars in length, though, as with everything else, there are some notable exceptions. Lyricists should not strive for tricky rhymes, unless they are writing for musical comedy or revues. Simplicity must be the ideal, the theme must be of general interest. Though the subjects are hackneyed, songs of love, mother or moon continue to make the greatest appeal, win the largest royalties."

* * *

According to Rolfe, originality is not so well rewarded in songwriting as in other fields. Music buyers want songs on proven themes. They are loath to experiment with new subjects. When all this has been considered the next step is to place the song with a reputable publisher. But that is another story. Usually a long and bitter one.

Will a Boy Who Has Slipped Once, Slip Again?

If Your Man got in wrong, and had to go to prison—

Would you stick to him—or would you give him the air?

Does it ever pay to stick to a man who is Doing Time?

Maybe your heart has been torn by a question like that. Maybe you stuck it out—maybe you didn't—

If you did, tell us what happened. Lorie would like to know, for that's the terrible problem confronting her.

"He'll just two-time you!" cry Dad 'n' Mom, urging her to forget him.

Did Your Man two-time you? "Dearest Sally:

"I am coming to you with a problem that I guess is unusual, a problem that is simply breaking my heart. Here it is:

"I loved a boy, and expected to marry him. I had known him for quite a long while, and he seemed to be a fine chap. He always was wonderful to me, and he seemed to have a fine future with the firm he worked for. Dad and Mother liked him, too.

"For quite a while before the blow fell, I noticed that he didn't seem to be himself. He got nervous and irritable, and seemed to be bothered about something. Sometimes he would talk so gloomy that it almost frightened me.

PARENTS DISAPPROVE

"Then, one terrible day, he was arrested. He had been 'borrowing' from his firm. He had had some extra expenses on account of his folks being sick, and he had 'borrowed' this money to try to make some more by investing it. He thought he would be able to make money and return the 'loan.' But his investments turned out badly, and he kept getting in deeper and deeper until finally he was discovered, and then it was all up with him.

"He was sentenced to two years in prison. He still has a year to serve. I love him, and so far I have stuck to him, and refused to go out with any others. But my mother and dad are forever at me to drop him. They say you can't trust a man who would be dishonest like that—and that if I insist on hanging onto him, I will only be making a miserable life for myself. 'Once a thief, always a thief,' they insist. They think that when he comes out, and gets another chance to dip into some firm's money, he will do it. And they think that his dishonesty about money shows he'd be dishonest in other ways, too—that he'll two-time me if I trust him.

PUZZLED ABOUT HIM

"Do you believe that, Sally? I don't. I think he was just a foolish kid (he's 25), who got pushed into a corner, and took a long chance and got caught. I think he has learned his lesson, and would never do such a thing again. He often writes me what a fool he was, and how he wants to get out and make good, for my sake—and his own too. I think he has waked up. What do you think?

"Please help me. I am so worried and harried that I just don't know what to do. I want to stick to him. But everybody tells me I am such a fool. I am nearly crazy, thinking about it.

"LORIE."

Well, how about it, Gang?

Should she stick—or shouldn't she?

Will a kid who has slipped once, slip again? Or can he come back and make good—be a man, even if he has a "record?"

Out of your own heartbreak or happiness, can you tell Lorie what to do?

Fay King Doubts Second Marriages More Successful Than First Ones

HONEY, IT BREAKS MY HEART TO SEE YOU WORK SO HARD!
THOSE WHO CARE LESS CAN DRIVE RELENTLESSLY
SHE IS REALLY EVEN MORE AMBITIOUS FOR HERSELF AND HE IS THE MEANS OF HER SUCCESS
FAY KING

By FAY KING

We often hear of a second marriage being more successful than a first marriage.

I do not wish to detract one iota from any woman's helpful influence, yet I sometimes think that a second wife receives more credit for her husband's success than she deserves, and it is a little unfair to the first wife.

A man's business ability is bound to develop with the years, so that the woman who marries him later in life finds him more advanced in self-development to begin with.

Many a man has thought his first wife didn't understand or appreciate him because she cared much more for his health and happiness than success achieved at the price of overwork, and she was not so ambitious for herself.

Heart of a Wife

Madge Decides to Take Harry Into Her Confidence

There was the sound of scuffing slippered feet along the kitchen floor and the Chinese who had brought me the preposterous demand for the lockbox Marion's dying grandmother had given her went despondently out of the door. As I watched his humble retreating figure, I felt no anger only a helpless pity. He was like a bullock going to the shambles.

I had no time to waste, however, in sympathy for the hapless messenger. His solemn utterance when I had threatened him and his masters with the police echoed forebodingly in the empty room.

"So sorry, sorry for me, more sorry for you."

Katie's rap sounded on the door and her voice was anxious, pleading.

"Missis Graham, you all rite."

"Of course, Katie." I answered with an effort of nonchalance.

"You see you had no need to worry," I said, smiling. "Oh! how pretty your trays look. I'm sorry to have delayed your serving."

"They not vait long," she said truthfully. "Dey only shoost coom. You vant me bring stoof in right avay?"

"If you please," I said as I left the kitchen, conscious that if there was anything in the world I dreaded doing it was going back to the veranda where I had left Katherine and Lillian with my month-old baby daughter. Mine is not a "poker face," and I feared that the eyes of both my friends, keen in perception, would notice the agitation I was trying to suppress.

Lillian must not guess the truth I told myself with a fierce protective instinct for the wonderful big-hearted woman who is so dear to me. Her love for the daughter so cruelly kept from her in infancy and small childhood is perilously near idolatry and the hint of any danger to the girl, such as the sinister hint of the Chinese signified would be unthinkable for her.

I knew what I must do, to whom I must appeal, but I must first see that Lillian was so occupied she would not suspect the confidence. One thing was imperative, however, the memory of that terrible time when Grace Draper had stolen Junior, always flashes before me when the word "danger" is spoken or thought of, and an opportune burst of laughter coming up through the floor gave me the chance to find the children without arousing Katie's curiosity sharpened now to a needle point, because she had no inkling of the errand of the mysterious Chinese.

"I thought Mr. Underwood would take the boys to their basement playroom," I said, and added with the familiar comment which we all use toward our faithful little maid of so many years' service. "You know Roderick and Junior——"

"I know," she said, with a ludicrously sapient air. "I was shoost cooming troo hall ven I hear dem scrapping ofer dot angel baby."

She shot a sly, rueful look at me and I knew that she suddenly had remembered her chief fault the one which more than once would have brought me to the point of discharging her were it not for her loyalty and her many other sterling qualities, to say nothing of her efficiency, for Katie, in Dicky's parlance, is a "snooper, par excellence," with a penchant for listening at keyholes. But it is always harmless espionage, and I gave no hint of my conjecture that she had stopped and listened uneasily to the "scrapping over the angel baby," the name which she bestowed upon the new addition to our family when she first saw her.

"Mr. Underwood took them away before they came to blows," I said lightly, but Katie took me literally.

"Yah. I hear heem but you take my vordt dose keeds fight ofer dot angel baby yet. Goot ting you have prize-fight place down cellar."

"I'll just slip down and see what they're doing," I said with forced nonchalance. "Serve your tea and fruit punch and the little cakes in five minutes. But first tell Mr. Graham and his mother that you are serving. They are out in the rose garden."

"You bet I do dot." Katie's giggle followed me down the stairs. "Eef dot old vomans no get fruit poonch und cake first ting, my name vill be vet dirt."

I feigned not to hear her, shirking the reproof she so richly deserved, as I so often have done in the past, and hurried into the basement, where I was relieved to find Harry Underwood standing out of earshot of the boys, fixing up a piece of gymnasium apparatus while they played happily with their electric trains.

He looked at me sharply as I came up to him.

"What's the matter?" he asked, with an infectious grin but keeping his voice low. "Dirty work at the crossroads?"

The Beauty Box

-:- -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Don't get your suntan too hurriedly. The burns of the sun are like any burns, destructive to the texture and beauty of the skin. The wise beauty-quester will use a thin cream to cleanse her skin before powdering and going out of doors. She will use it for removing make-up and atmospheric dust when she comes in after exposure to the sun.

Nobody knows why the liver is held responsible for yallery spots that appear upon the skin. The medical profession states that the liver has nothing to do with their appearance. Applications of peroxide and rosewater, two tablespoonfuls each, will often discourage these disfiguring patches, causing them to pack up and depart from the facial premises.

When pressing back the cuticle about the finger nails, use an orange wood stick—never a steel instrument—and be gentle. Abrasions of the skin that surround the nail may produce dangerous infections. Pressure can so impair the matrix that the nail will grow out rigid and dogged with white spots. Use cuticle cream every night. A wonderful help.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Remember That Your Heart Gets Tired, Too

Newspaper headlines tell us every day of the sudden and unexpected death of some noted person. The sudden loss is almost always explained as heart disease.

Dr. Copeland

Many of these deaths could have been avoided. Heart disease is rarely an acute affair. The end may come suddenly, but the progress of the ailment has been over a course of many years.

The heart is a muscular organ. Its function is to pump blood through the body. When the blood has received oxygen from the lungs and nutritive elements from the food, it is pumped to all parts of the body. After the oxygen has been used and the nutritive elements removed, the blood returns to the heart and starts again on its circuit of the body.

A tremendous amount of work is demanded of the heart. When the organ is tired, its power to work is lessened. If the heart is diseased, its efficiency is lessened and less hard work should be expected of it.

Like any other muscle in the body, the heart muscles become fatigued. With rest and proper care, the muscle is rejuvenated and again works normally.

No unreasonable demands should be placed upon the heart. It should not be called upon for overwork when it is tired. It should never be strained if diseased.

Many a foolish person demands that the heart work at any and all times. Regardless of how many hours of sleep he has had, what type of food he may have eaten, and with no respect for the kidneys and blood vessels, he expects the heart to work properly. Certainly, only a foolish man would make such demands on his heart and other organs.

Please remember that medical men today are endeavoring to prevent disease, not to cure them. Many diseases are incurable, but most of them are preventable.

Have you had a physical examination lately? Please see your family physician and insist upon his examining your heart, lungs and blood pressure. Then he will advise you wisely how to live.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Matter of Personal Choice

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Both my sister and myself are graduating from senior high this season, and there has been a discussion as to whether I, as the younger sister, should put Miss on my calling cards?

There is also another point to be considered in using miss, as my first name is a boy's name.

2. Should I have my middle name on my cards? I never use it as it is quite long. I would personally prefer to have my cards printed, or rather engraved, as "Miss Firstname Lastname." Please inform me as to the correct form however.

3. Also will you please tell me whether or not it is permissible to use printing? I always print—never write. Is this correct?

L. N.

1. By all means use the Miss on your visiting cards. This is correct, no matter what your age, or whether or not you have a sister, or whether she is older or younger than you. Especially is it important because of your first name.

2. It is not at all necessary to have your middle name on your cards. If you don't like it, or if it overbalances your name—as a middle name often does—by all means omit it. As a matter of fact, I think that in most cases names sound better without the middle name. Especially if the middle name lacks distinction.

Have your engraver show you the style of engraving called Shaded Antique Roman, and I am sure you will like to have him engrave the plate for your cards in this style. It is very lovely.

3. If you like printing instead of writing, I suppose that it is all right. Personally I like handwriting, for it can be so charmingly good-looking, and so characteristic of the person, so intimately personal. But I realize that some schools teach the printing form, and we must make a personal choice.

A Tonic for

Run-Down Purses

If your pocketbook is thin and run-down, or just suffering from that tired feeling, the chances are it's not getting the right food. For purses, like humans, soon waste away on the wrong diet.

There's no tonic in the world for overworked, delicate pocketbooks like an A & P diet. Try buying your food exclusively at an A & P store for a while and watch your purse start to perk up. Within a week it will be gaining weight, and by the end of the month it will be so fat you will probably have to start reducing it on some extra silk stockings or something . . . Millions of purses are healthier because their owners trade in A & P stores.

Darrow Sees Vote as Negro's Hope

ASSOCIATION HEARS LAWYER LAUD AIMS

Two Arrests Mark Final Meet at Memorial Hall; 'Red' Warning Voiced

Under the laws of the country, which he declared do not mean much, the Negro is entitled to every equality, Clarence Darrow, noted lawyer, said at the closing session of the twenty-second annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Memorial Hall yesterday.

He urged the use of the ballot as a weapon, and warned against what he termed "the traditional Negro politician who sells your votes to the whites for an office and declared it the fault of Negroes themselves that there are no Negro school teachers in Pittsburgh. He said:

DARROW LAUDS PROGRESS

Darrow continued:

"In spite of the heaviest handicaps that ever have been put upon man, the Negro is making his way. In organizing your association, you should have called it 'The National Association for the Advancement of White People,' for they are the ones who need it.

"You can get very little help from the white man today, north or south. Idealism is gone. They know you now, and know that you are no better than white people. The white people of the north have practically deserted the Negro. You have got to help yourselves."

Walter White, secretary of the association, declared that Haiti, the only Negro republic in the Western Hemisphere, is being ground into the dust by the United States. He warned his audience that unless justice is done to the Negroes of the United States, communism will spread through the race. To combat this, he said, the Negro must be shown he has a place in the future of the country.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Other speakers were Col. J. E. Spingarn, president of the association; Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkin, of Pittsburgh, who presided at the meeting; the Rev. M. A. Talley, of Homestead, and the Rev. C. B. Allen, of Bethesda Church.

Two arrests were made at the meeting when a man in the audience sought to make a speech immediately after White concluded his address.

FOUR MEN FINED IN KIDNAPING ATTEMPT

Prisoners Tried to Force Girl in Auto in Park, Escort Tells Magistrate

Four men, arrested following a chase through North Side and downtown streets last night after Earl Stewart, 26, of 1319 Veto street, complained they tried to kidnap his companion, Margaret Sweeney, 21, of 1612 Hays street, in West Park, were fined $25 each in North Side Police Court today.

Stewart and the girl, who were also taken into custody, were discharged. The men said they were Leo Joos, 24, of 4812 Kincaid street; James S. Spanpinato, of 3826 Clement street; Humbert Frandom, 28, of 249 South Matilda street, and Andrew Boxer, 35, of 3341 Fleetwood street.

Stewart testified he and Miss Sweeney were sitting in the park, their car nearby, when six men, who drove up in another machine, approached them. They insulted Miss Sweeney and tried to compel her to accompany them, he said.

When she resisted the men fled. Miss Sweeney and Stewart said they trailed them to Seventh avenue and Grant street, where they picked up Motorcycle Patrolman Harry Seibel and Patrolman Joseph Scanlon.

Two of the four were arrested, the other two escaping. The officers said they found Miss Sweeney's purse and a sledge hammer in the prisoners' car.

AUTO ACCIDENT FATAL FOR WOMAN

Dozen Injured in Traffic Mishaps on Crowded Roads as Holiday Ends

The deaths of a motorcycle policeman and a woman, and injury to a dozen other local residents yesterday added to the toll of three dead and several injured which occurred on the Fourth, Roads were crowded with traffic yesterday, many motorists returning last night from distant points they had visited over the holiday.

Motorcycle Patrolman Louis Wagner, of Ingram, was killed yesterday morning when the motorcycle on which he was riding with Harry McKenzie, 30, of Chapman street, Ingram, sideswiped one car and then struck another head-on in the Steubenville pike, Kennedy Township.

92-MILE SPEED SHOWN

McKenzie is in Mercy Hospital, his skull fractured and both legs broken. Max Glazer, of Maspeth, N. Y., and R. E. Abbott, of Chicago, drivers of the cars, were permitted to continue their journeys after they had made statements to the coroner. Morgue attaches said the speedometer on the motorcycle indicated that the officer was traveling 92 miles an hour at the time of the accident. Glazer had as passengers his wife, Elizabeth, and Mrs. Madelyn Scherer, 64, his mother-in-law. They were cut and bruised and were treated by a Crafton physician. Madelyn Scherer, 10, of Richwood, N. Y., niece of Glazer, and the latter both escaped uninjured.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.
July 6.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I got my first thanks for ever saying a nice thing about some man. I do, lots of times, brag of our prominent men, but they always take it as a matter of fact. But the old Oklahoma oil man that backed the flight came through:

Will Rogers

"Many thanks for your kind notice, and the best I can do in return is to take Post and Gatty to visit Claremore, Okla. Advise if you want us."

Now here is a chance for these two boys to really make good. If Gatty can navigate enough to find a field there, I'll say he is a Columbus, and if Post can land on the field, I'll say he is a magician. I have always had to use a parachute. Yours, WILL.

KEEPER AT ZOO HELD FOR COURT

Ehrmann admitted he had been drinking and said he didn't remember anything that happened after the head keeper suspended him.

Peace on Earth Is Being Sought With Mellonium

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

International diplomacy is a tasty dish. France has finally agreed to the Hoover debt plan and everybody is as happy as your old husband in Reno.

Nobody seems to know just what the newest debt Hoovorium is but we all agree that no matter what happens it will be an improvement.

We are trying hard to accumulate peace on earth and et cetera for men. The closest we can come to the millennium is the Mellonium.

We hope it's all for the best. But we must not forget the darky's comment when the preacher described the coming of the millennium and how the old devil would rage in chains for a thousand years, rattling his shackles, roaring like the thunderstorms, gnashing his teeth, thrashing his barbed tail and generally frightening good people to death.

The little darky listened to this and finally said, "Brother, he might as well be loose."

There is just an outside chance that the Mellonium will be less terrifying.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

With the arrival of summer and the departure of many members of the social set for resorts, our interest becomes more and more diverted to the gaieties of resort life.

And one of the crowning events at summer resorts is yachting. On looking over the Pittsburgh section of the summer social register I was surprised at the number of Pittsburghers having yachts.

Yacht at Anchor

The Maitland Alexanders have their yacht Viator anchored at Dark Harbor, Me., for the summer; the Carl H. Borntraegers have their yacht Rita at their Beaumaris summer place; the William Thayer Browns have their yacht Ariel anchored at Hyannisport, Mass.; the J. Frederic Byerses have their yacht Bing at Watch Hill.

Other Pittsburgh yachts are Edith Anne, owned by Mrs. William H. Cassidy and the Matthew Taylors, summering as usual at Beaumaris, Ontario; Norwood III, owned by William L. Clause and the George G. Bells, who have a summer place at Muskoka Lake; Polly, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, who summer at Easthampton.

The A. Rex Flinns have two yachts, a steam yacht Malobi and and a schooner yacht Matheus 38. William Y. Humphreys and David M. Humphreys have a yacht Halcyon III, anchored at Hyannisport, Mass.; the William Larimer Mellons have their Vagabondia. They summer at Beaumaris.

Owners Of Yachts

Other yacht owners from Pittsburgh are Mrs. Colin McF. Reed, who summer at Sodus Point, N. Y., and have a yacht named Starling, and Mrs. William F. Robeson has a schooner yacht, Sumurun.

The Ralph S. Richardes have a steam yacht, Doctor, and a sloop yacht, Mimi II. The William Christopher Robinsons, who have not yet left for their Watch Hill, R. I., summer place, have a yacht, Solana.

The Harry E. Sheldons have a yacht, Mary Alice I; the Glenn N. Stewarts have a schooner yacht, Centaur; the George E. Teners have a schooner yacht, too, Tyrone; the James Lyall Stuarts, who are at Bass Rocks, Gloucester, have a sloop yacht, Bonny Prince.

* * *

From now we shall be hearing all sorts of things about gaities at Watch Hill, one of Pittsburgh society's favorite summer resorts. Of course you know that Watch Hill is in Rhode Island.

Watch Hill Opening

The Yacht Club started its racing season on the Fourth. And on Friday night the formal opening of the club took place when a dance was held at the clubhouse. And after the races tea was served on the spacious, windswept porch of the club.

The Misquamicut Golf Club is another attractive center of Watch Hill summer life. The first golf tournament of the season was held yesterday with the William S. Moorheads entered in the event with a large field.

After the tournament there was a brilliant dinner dance, the first of a series, at the Golf Club. And Saturday and Sunday a buffet luncheon was served on the terrace of the clubhouse, overlooking the Atlantic.

The Richard Beatty Mellons are expected on the tenth of the month at their Watch Hill home, now being prepared for their arrival.

* * *

Others who'll arrive later are the William Christopher Robinsons. Not until the first of August will Mrs. William R. Thompson, another faithful Watch Hill summer resident, arrive. At present her son and daughter, the E. B. Reeds, of New Haven, are at her home, Sunset.

Summer Arrivals

The William S. Moorheads are at the Driggs cottage; Mrs. Hobart Ayres is at Hillandale Farm, and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, Jr., will occupy Thalassa for the coming season. The Moorheads have as their guest their daughter, Mrs. Albert Barr, of New York.

Casa Loma, an old cottage, and for long a landmark standing on the hill as one approached Watch Hill, has been razed. And it's rumored that the R. B. Mellons will erect a summer place there for their son-in-law and daughter, the Alan Magee Scaifes.

Homestead President and Officers To Receive Members at Pre-Season Meeting

Meeting on alternate Mondays from October until June, the Woman's Club of Homestead will find a year of pleasure and profit in the programs outlined on Russia and miscellaneous topics. A pre-season meeting will be that of September 28, when the president, Mrs. Richard Moon, and her officers will receive the members in the club room at Homestead Carnegie Library.

To begin the year's study the women will hear two papers—"The Frame Work of the Soviet Government" and "Working Out the Five-Year Plan." No program on Russia seems to be complete without a review of Grand Duchess Marie's book, "The Education of a Princess," and this the Homestead Club will have on October 26 together with discussion of "The Recreational Program of the Soviets" and current news of Russia.

"The Position of the Working Man," "The Importance of the Woman" and "Training of School Children" make up one November schedule, and the second meeting will find the first of the miscellaneous programs—"The Psychological Value of Music in Everyday Life" and musical numbers. The Christmas program, too, will be other than Russian in its interest, for a Christmas story will be told, curiosities of holiday customs will be told and the Bible as a literary treasure will be studied.

Other topics of Russian study will be "The Morals of the Modern Russians," "American Brains capitalized by the Soviets," "Socialism and American Ideals" and included in the widely varying other topics are "What is it to be Educated?", "What Do We Inherit?", "The American and Other Peoples in America," "Ties of Trade That United America with the World," "Outstanding Citizens of the World," "Democracy and the Public Taste in Reading," "Ten Years of Engineering Progress in Allegheny County," "Educating Adults by Radio," "Why We Should Laugh" and others.

FELT RETURNS TO GLORIFY AUTUMN MILLINERY WORLD

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 6.—Coming events in the millinery world are making themselves felt and thus we are able to tell you that felt is to be one of the principal mediums through which the new mode will be expressed. It has been some seasons since felt was a major fabric for hats and so it is due for a come-back. Felt allied with velvet or velours will be used for many of the new autumn hats. A new oilcloth felt will be much used for informal town hats. Of course, there will be plenty of velvet hats, but it looks as though felt will take first place for the average hat, the hat that is purchased with an eye to general wear throughout the day. Already one sees many felt hats that are quite obviously part of the early autumn harvest, and very good they look, too. Brims are still paramount. So much can be done with a brim and it makes it easy for a woman to manipulate the hat so that it creates a line that does the right thing by her.

* * *

PATOU HAS MADE some delightful hats in felt and herewith we show you a sketch of one of his advance models. It is smartly tailored in fine black felt. The supple brim of medium width is turned up off the face in front and rolled down in back against the neck. From slits at the back of the crown emerge two pieces of ribbon in putty colored peau d'ange, that lovely dull faced satin that so closely resembled soft kid. The ribbons are knotted at the base of the crown.

* * *

IN KEEPING with this romantic age—so far as the mode is concerned anyway—we are presented with feathered hats. And it looks as though feathers were to play an important role in the new millinery being prepared for next season. Madame Jose makes the hat shown in the appended sketch, of chocolate colored straw with a drooping edge of matching horsehair braid bordering the wide brim.

* * *

AT ONE SIDE, atop the brim, is placed a pale pink ostrich feather with several strands of chocolate colored ostrich knotted into it. Underneath the brim is a shorter plume in all pink. Many women will rejoice that the lovely combination of brown with pink is being used again.

Garden Association Holds Flower Show at Casino

NEW YORK.—A flower show was held at the Casino at Newport last week under the auspices of the Garden Association, of which Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster is president.

The music season also began last week. The concerts are to be held daily. Theophil Wendt is directing the orchestra.

Lillian Gish Follows Rage, Buys Blue Dress

PARIS.—Lillian Gish is following the rage for navy blue.

On her recent annual shopping trip to Paris the motion picture actress bought a blue and white polka-dotted jersey dress with short sleeves, finished with a deep V collar and belt in coarse brown linen. The dress was accompanied by a short navy blue jacket of ribbed jersey.

A navy blue lightweight wool coat fastened in front by a large belt was another of Miss Gish's purchases.

Exclusive Party Sees Circus at Glen Cove

NEW YORK.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Alexandre, Jr., turned the grounds surrounding their Glen Cove (L. I.) estate into a circus lot recently. The list of their guests was an exclusive one, and the party, starting at 11, ended at sunup.

Society Folks Busy At Seaside Resorts

NEW YORK.—Moonlight, particularly enchanting when glimmering on the water, brought romance to seaside resorts last week.

At Newport gay clambake parties were held on the beach nightly, the Clambake Club being the center of activity. Private swimming parties enlivened the sultry evenings at Southampton.

One evening during the week, however, the colonists of Newport, Southampton and Tuxedo forsook the moonlight to come to town. Changing from sporting togs, they donned formal evening attire to attend the opening of the "Follies," an event which drew a crowd rivaling that of the winter opera season.

NEW PRESIDENT AT SETON HILL

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 6.—Dr. James A. Wallace Reeves has been named president of Seton Hill College to succeed the late Dr. Daniel Richard Sullivan, according to an announcement today by the board of directors.

Associated with Seton Hill for more than 10 years, Dr. Reeves had been vice president since 1926. He went to the college in 1920 as its first instructor in philosophy, and in 1922 became professor of psychology.

In 1929 Dr. Reeves was elected departmental chairman of the college section of the National Catholic Education Association and presided at its twenty-seventh annual convention in New Orleans, and at the twenty-eighth annual convention recently in Philadelphia.

Completing his studies at St. Vincent's College, where he received his B. A. M. A. and S. T. D. degrees, in 1921, Dr. Reeves pursued graduate research studies at Columbia University, the University of Pittsburgh, Cambridge University and at Louvain.

6 DIE AS PLANE STRIKES CLIFF

LUCERNE, Cal., July 6.—(INS.)—Six persons were dead here today after the flight of a sight-seeing airplane ended against a canyon wall.

The dead included three of California's best known golfers, here to play an exhibition match, George Ritchie, 29; Jack Kerrigan, 26, and Leon Keller, 25, all of San Francisco, and Louis M. Becker, 55, wealthy Los Angeles real estate man; Mrs. Sigmunda Lax, of Long Beach, and William Hoffman, of Berkeley, pilot.

At an altitude of 1,000 feet the motor "cut out." Hoffman tried to glide back to the Lake Shore field, but the monoplane plunged into a tree half a mile from the field and rolled 100 feet down the canyon wall. All but Mrs. Lax were dead when spectators arrived and she died in a few minutes.

Mrs. Hoffman, wife of the pilot, and their two small children were watching from the field.

94 MILLIONS IN CONTRACTS LET

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—Activity in large building enterprises, although not matching that of boom years, is continuing on a substantial scale, Truman S. Morgan, president of F. W. Dodge Corporation, told the Associated Press today in announcing million-dollar contracts awarded from May 15 to June 30.

The total value of 26 of these large structures was $94,505,200.

Within the last week the New York Central Railroad freight terminal and warehouse, in New York City, contributed $16,000,000 to this record. Mr. Morgan pointed out that these undertakings were well distributed as to location and included a theater in New York City to cost $1,000,000; a postoffice in Boston listed at $4,648,000; a hydraulic dam in Arkansas to cost $13,000,000, and a city hall in St. Paul, which will cost $3,000,000.

KOREAN MOBS SLAY CHINESE

TOKIO, July 6.—(INS.)—News of serious rioting in Korea against Chinese residents of that country caused deep concern in Japan today. Twenty-nine Chinese, including one woman, were killed and more than a hundred seriously wounded when a mob of 5,000 Koreans stormed the Chinese quarter of Heijo last night.

Chinese were dragged from their houses, thrown into the streets and beaten in retaliation for recent attacks on Korean farmers at Wam-Pao-Shan, near Changchun, China.

Anti-Chinese agitation today was spreading to other districts of Korea. Fear was expressed here that smoldering resentment against Japanese occupation of Korea would result in attacks on Japanese government officials, soldiers and other Japanese residents of that country.

ANOTHER BID FOR CLEVELAND STADIUM

PITTSBURGHERS WHO HAD a chance to inspect Cleveland's huge municipal stadium on the occasion of the Schmeling-Stribling fight expressed approval of the plan to have the Cleveland American League baseball club play its games there. It looks like an ideal plant for baseball, with plenty of playing room in addition to its great seating capacity. But it develops there is a hitch in the negotiations.

Alva Bradley

The original proposal was that the club pay $50,000 a year rental and 25 cents on each ticket above 1,000,000 during a season. Then the city asked 25 cents on each ticket above 500,000, besides the $50,000 rental, and in addition wanted full control of all concessions and supervision over all employes at the stadium. Alva Bradley, owner of the Indians, refused to turn over the concessions or to permit the city to pick or discharge the men and women he might employ to work at the grounds. He has just made a new offer of $50,000 a year rental, $25,000 a year to maintain the stadium and 15 per cent on gross receipts in excess of $725,000 a season. A 25 year lease is asked. City Council will act on the latest bid a week from today.

APART FROM THE success of the Pirates in scoring four victories in their last five appearances, additional hope that a period of better things has arrived for them may be contained in the fact that Ervin Brame has finally won another ball game. Though pitching only three innings after relieving Glenn Spencer, the Kentuckian received credit for yesterday's win in Cincinnati.

That's the first game Brame has won in six weeks, and is only his second victory of the season. His only other success was marked up on May 24 at Chicago. Even then he had to be lifted in the sixth inning but received the award, though Spencer finished the game. From that date until he broke into the "won" column again yesterday Brame dropped seven games in a row.

IN KNOCKING OFF the Giants three times in two days, and incidentally holding them to a total of only two runs in the three games, the Robins kept up a drive that has carried them to third place and put them right in the thick of the pennant fight from which they appeared to have been eliminated a few weeks ago. They're only four games from first place now, and still traveling at mad speed. They have won 10 out of their last 11 games, 15 out of their last 17 and 18 out of their last 22. The Cards' slump and the Robins' rise has made it a close four-club fight, with only four and a half games separating the first and fourth teams.

THE PRESENT SERIES between the A's and the Senators in Washington isn't so "crucial" as it had promised to be before a double victory for the Mackmen and a double defeat for the Johnsons on Saturday stretched Philadelphia's pennant lead to five and a half games.

Wesley Fesler

Even after dropping the first game of the set yesterday, the White Elephants are still four and a half games to the good, and will come out of the series with that comfortable margin in their favor if they only break even in the remaining two contests. The season's series stands five games to four in favor of the A's. George Earnshaw, beaten yesterday, hasn't been overly successful against the Senators. Since 1929 he has won only a single game from them while losing to them six times.

THE CASE OF Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's all-America football star and crack all-around athlete, has demonstrated again that attaining the height of fame in intercollegiate competition does not always assure immediate success in professional baseball.

Fesler, signed with a view to eventual service with the St. Louis Cardinals, was placed with the Columbus club in the American Association, but evidently he was found unripe for company of that speed, as he has been transferred already to the smaller Cardinal farm at Houston in the Texas League. He is to be used regularly in the outfield there in the hope of developing him.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM HARRIDGE has just called the attention of American League scorers to an error in the official scoring rules which provide that in giving credit for runs batted in the scorer should include "runs scored on safe hits, including home runs, sacrifice hits and INFIELD OUTS."

In abolishing the sacrifice fly, the rulemakers overlooked giving the batter credit for a run knocked in with a fly to the outfield. Harridge instructs his scorers to change "INFIELD OUTS" to "PUTOUTS." President John A. Heydler of the National League discovered the error months earlier. In the scoring instructions he sent out before the season opened he changed the rules to read "INFIELD AND OUTFIELD OUTS."

NO MATTER WHICH of the deadlocked principals wins out, the 1931 national open will go into the books as one of the most spectacular golf tournaments of all time and certainly the hardest fight in history for this particular title. Bobby Jones and Willie MacFarlane played two extra 18-hole rounds in 1925 at Worcester, with MacFarlane winning, but their total of 108 holes all told has already been equaled by George Von Elm and Billy Burke, with 36 more to be played today.

NO ONE EVER came quite so close to winning the U. S. open without actually capturing it than Burke. On Saturday he had the championship almost in his grasp when Von Elm holed a 15-foot putt for a birdie on the final hole and tied Burke's leading score of 292. Yesterday Billy again looked like the probable winner, but once more, with a birdie needed to tie, Von Elm slipped a 12-foot putt into the cup and the 36-hole playoff resulted in another deadlock.

It would appear to require an uncommonly stout heart to keep Burke from weakening today after his double disappointment resulting from Von Elm's rare display of fighting spirit and steadiness in the face of defeat at the last ditch.

EVEN WHEN SWELTERING in the summer heat, a football coach has got to give some thought to his game, and Jock Sutherland, looking ahead to Pitt's 1931 season, is wondering if history will repeat in a shift which he plans to make in the line.

Back in 1928, Ray Montgomery was moved first from guard to tackle and then from tackle to center, where he played the remainder of the season. He was not the greatest center Pitt ever had, but he was far from being the poorest. The following year he was back at his old guard post and handled the job so capably that he was an almost unanimous all-America choice.

Jim MacMurdo

THERE MAY BE a parallel case this year in the return shift of Jim MacMurdo, who last season was used at end after performing in a sensational manner at tackle in his sophomore campaign. MacMurdo is going back to his old berth at tackle next fall, and if he can keep up the same pace he set there when he started in the position he may duplicate the remarkable success of Montgomery. And Coach Sutherland does not consider it improbable, by any means. MacMurdo, by the way, along with his running mate, Rip Collins, turned in a highly creditable scholastic report during the last semester, making a sharp right-about face after being dropped from the squad before the Penn State game last season for academic deficiencies.

NEW COMMISH FAVORABLE TO SCHMELING

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission is going to recognize Max Schmeling, of Germany, as the heavyweight champion of the world.

Working in conjunction with the peeved New York commission, the Keystone state board has withheld this recognition from Maxie although he is generally regarded throughout the boxing world as the kingpin of the big boys.

With the revision of the Pennsylvania commission, Chairman Harry Farrell, of Nanticoke, the only member of the body retained by Gov. Pinchot, has announced that the major business of the reorganization meeting which likely will be held in Philadelphia next Wednesday will be the taking up of the status of the Battling Uhlan, who greatly enhanced his prestige by knocking out Young Stribling in their Battle of the Big Loss in Cleveland last Friday night.

DR. McCLELLAND APPROVES

Farrell, in a long-distance conversation yesterday, said he was much impressed with Schmeling's work in the Stribling bout and would recommend recognition as champion for him when he gathers with his new colleagues. Dr. William D. McClelland, of Brookline, well-known dentist and former University of Pittsburgh football star, and a Philadelphia newspaperman, whose appointment is expected hourly.

Farrell did not attend the Cleveland fight, but he listened to the radio description and also read the accounts of leading boxing critics in the newspapers and he is convinced that it would be ridiculous to longer refrain from giving Schmeling his just due.

Dr. McClelland, when asked for his views on the matter today, said he heartily agreed with Chairman Farrell and that when the subject comes up at the meeting he will vote to place Schmeling on the records as the champion. This will give the matter a majority vote, regardless of how the third member decides.

WRESTLING CLEANUP LIKELY

Dr. McClelland has no set views on his new duties aside from the Schmeling case. He said today he would look over the field before passing judgment on any other issues. His mind is open on wrestling. He feels that if a certain portion of the public wants wrestling and is inclined to support it, and since it is legalized under the commission law, he will permit it to continue, at least for the present, but he likely will effect some changes in the manner in which the sport has been conducted here. For one thing, he probably will abolish the monopoly on the promotion of wrestling that has existed here in recent months.

It developed that Dr. McClelland was not a candidate for the position, but he readily accepted when it was offered to him. With his knowledge of sports, he should prove a capable official. While he has not been an ardent follower of either boxing or wrestling, he has more than a passing knowledge of both and should fall speedily into the routine of the office. He plans to continue his dental practice in conjunction with the new job. Business efficiency in the management of the affairs of the commission are uppermost in his mind at the moment.

TOMORROW—THE MAN WHO REGAINED HIS SIGHT IN AN ACCIDENT.

BUCS RECALL JENSEN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Victors in four of their last five engagements, the Pirates today had a better morale, and the whole tone of the team will be benefitted by the home office announcement this morning that Outfielder Forrest (Woodie) Jensen had been recalled from the Newark club of the International League.

Forrest Jensen

Jensen was farmed out to Al Mamaux's club under a special 24-hour option early in the season. The spirited Dane played a stellar role from the beginning, his cleverness having much to do with putting the Jersey Bears in the International League flag fight. Jensen is batting close to .350 in almost 50 games.

The youthful ball hawk will report to Manager Ens Wednesday, the Buccos to open a four-game series with the Bruins on that date. Woodie is lefthanded all the way and he is an excellent baserunner. In the vast centerfield range he is said to be in a class with Lloyd Waner. He has been playing that position for the Bears.

KENNEDY TO HAZLETON

The Pirate official also stated that Pitcher Lloyd Vernon Kennedy had been turned back to the Pittsburgh club by Wichita. The rookie has been farmed out to the Hazleton club of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Kennedy is the famous A. A. U. athlete who won the intercollegiate decathlon championship several years ago. He was doing slab duty in the Mississippi Valley League when the Pirates acquired him.

On top of their pretty victory over the Reds in Cincinnati yesterday, the Pirates are barn-

The postponement was taken as much to save the turf as the players, the ground being soggy so that it would be cut up easily by the spikes of the players.

INVERNESS CLUB, Toledo, O., July 6.—(AP.)—George von Elm took a one-stroke lead over Billy Burke today after 18 holes of their second 36-hole playoff for the United States Open golf championship. Von Elm scored 76 and Burke 77.

They were all square at the seventeenth, the one hundred and twenty-fifth hole they have played since the tournament began last Thursday—but Burke flubbed his pitch shot like an ordinary duffer on the 325-yard eighteenth hole. This cost him a 5. Von Elm getting his 4 easily after a 10-footer barely missed the cup for another of George's favorite birdies.

DING-DONG BATTLE

The continuation of the record-smashing marathon for the open crown was another ding-dong battle. Von Elm was off quickly to a three-stroke lead in the first three holes, but Burke drew level at the seventh, then took the lead with a birdie at the ninth. They were all square at the twelfth and again at the fifteenth as the fortunes of war shifted rapidly.

Von Elm complained that the click of a camera shutter upset him as he was making a shot out of a trap on the thirteenth. He went clear across the green into another sand pit and wound up with a 5. Burke picked up two strokes here, but lost them both at the fifteenth, where he gambled with a spoon and shot off the side of a trap and pushed it away off the line, across a road and into the side of the creek bank. From there he went over the green and finally got down in 6.

POOREST ROUND

Billy's birdie at the sixteenth put him in front again, but a poor second shot on the seventeenth, into the rough, and his dubbed approach on the eighteenth each cost him one stroke and the lead.

Burke's 77 was his poorest round of the seven he has played so far in the tournament. So was Von Elm's 76.

A gallery of scarcely 250 people, most of them officials, police and newspapermen followed the morning round despite a reduction in the price of admission from $4 to $2 for the day. The clouds cleared off for the most part, and it was steaming hot against before noon.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—There's a saying that the teams that lead the league on the Fourth of July will win the pennants, but don't you believe it. There's also a slogan that you can get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas, but the Red Sox haven't stuck their heads out of the second division in seven years.

Nick Altrock

I admit the A's are ploughing ahead like oil-burning eagle, but that doesn't make our Washington club a humming bird. The Cardinals could also use a couple of yards of leeway before they start printing world series tickets.

Just remember there is nothing certain in baseball, except Judge Landis will always get his picture in the papers.

Open Playoff In Detail

INVERNESS CLUB, TOLEDO, O., July 6.—(AP.)—The hole-by-hole description of today's 36-hole playoff of the tie between George Von Elm and Billy Burke for the national open golf championship:

Hole No. 1, 392 yards, par 4. Von Elm won the first hole with a par 4 when Burke three-putted, missing his second from three feet.

Hole No. 2, 388 yards, par 4. Burke's drive pushed to the rough, while George's was straight and his second on for an easy par 4. Burke's second hit a trap and he dubbed his out to another and took a 5 to get home, going three shots behind.

Hole No. 3, 146, par 3, both were on in 1 and in for 3's. Von Elm going three feet past from 25 feet and Burke as bid for a deuce missing by a foot.

Hole No. 4, 431 yards, par 4. Burke's drive was on the fairway, but from the rough and George's deep in the heavy hay. He had a nice out, but it was short of the green, while Burke's was holed from 24 feet from the pin. Von Elm got in for a 4. George's third rolled eight feet from the cup, but he missed his putt by an inch, cutting his lead to two shots.

Hole No. 5, 430 yards, par 4. The drives almost kissed in the center of the fairway. Billy's second was 10 yards short, while Von Elm was just on 30 feet of the cup. Billy's pitch rolled eight feet past the flag and George's putt fell six feet short. Burke sank his for a 4, so did Von Elm.

Hole No. 6, 360 yards, par 4. Burke was on the green 10 feet from the cup. Von Elm was 20 feet past. His putt was an inch short. Burke's was 18 inches to the left and they halved it was 4's.

Hole No. 7, 516 yards, par 5. Burke's tee shot split the fairway, 280 yards. Von Elm pulled his to the steep hilly rough to the left of the green, 30 yards from the green. His second was 10 feet short of the carpet, while Burke's was 12 feet from the cup. He sank it for a birdie. George was 10 feet away on his third and his fourth stopped on the lip, sparing the match.

Hole No. 8, 210 yards, par 3. Von Elm's drive was 10 feet past the pin, Burke's was 16 feet to the left, giving him a curling, down-hill putt. His first one was four feet short. George's was six inches wide and he missed it for a 4, just dubbing. Burke also missed his to make it a double three-putt green.

Hole No. 9, 192 yards, par 3. The drives and seconds were equal and short, 20 yards from the green. Burke's third was five feet from the cup. George's stopped 15 feet wide and short. His putt was a foot past and he got a 5. Billy sank his for a birdie and went 1 shot ahead.

Hole No. 10, 348 yards, par 4. Straight all the way, they were on with two shots. Burke's stopping 12 feet past and to the left. Von Elm's 25 feet short to the left. His putt rolled 5 foot too far. Burke stopped an inch short. George's putt for a 4 halted an inch short, sending Burke two shots ahead.

Hole No. 11, 380 yards, par 4—Again they were on with two shots, but but 18 feet from the pin. George rolled his up and in for a birdie three while Billy's was an inch wide. Burke was now only one stroke in front.

Hole No. 12, 515 yards, par 5. Burke's drive stopped on the side of a steep bunker, 220 yards out, and he just got out on the fairway, five yards away with his out. Von Elm's drive was dangerously near the rough, but he sailed his second to the hills, approach 30 yards from the green, even with Burke's third. Burke's four was five feet short of the pin and George's third, 10 feet to the right. He putt for a Bill Stuhifire's Rieck-McJunkin nine will be the attraction at Library this evening when it meets Pittsburgh Coal in an outstanding Commercial and Industrial League battle.

Riecks are running a neck-to-neck race with Reliance in the loop, and, inasmuch as these teams are scheduled to clash a couple of times, a loss to the Coal-this evening almost will be disastrous.

The Riecks and Reliance staged a real battle Friday for three innings until a heavy rainstorm broke. Capt. Dutch Spencer and Eddie Imhoff were twirling great baseball. The fans are expected to pack the parks twice this week when the teams meet again.

HOMEWOOD IN TEST

Homewood gets its first-half titular aspiration tested this evening at Olympia Park, where it meets Book Shoe. The Shoemen, while out of the running, are keen to bump off Dormont and Homewood, which are fighting it out for the title.

There is little doubt but that Eddie Buch is keenly disappointed in the showing of the Shoemen in the first half. The Books had the outstanding pre-season club to cop, but slumped badly.

With the second half coming along, Buch has cleaned house, and Jiggers Welsh will lead the Olympia Park entry in the second half.

Dave Black will be with the club, playing second base, and that alone should help the infield. With Black with Books, Andy Swetonic with North Side Buicks and Boll with Homewood, all recognized fighters, things are bound to happen in the latter half chase.

At present, fans are anticipating the Reliance-Homestead Aces game. Hans Wagner is trying to arrange it so that the second half of the West Penn can get under way. It will probably start on Wednesday with the championship game carded for next week.

Bad weather has played havoc with schedules and many of the champions should be named this week.

TITULAR BATTLE CARDED

Mike Kudrau is requested to get in touch with Wagner to name his playing night for the second half, because it is reported Moultrie Park is out of commission for the remainder of the season.

A championship game which should pack in the fans is the St. Elizabeth-East End Cardinals tilt. The Cards traveled to Leslie Park Friday to beat the leaders, and if the squad under the leadership of Bill Ryan repeats this close at Homewood, the Cards will be first half titleholders.

However, Danko will be out fighting in the second game and Hussey is being primed to meet the Lawrenceville outfit.

After splitting a holiday bill with Danville, Pa., the Mayview baseball team meets Coraopolis tonight, and the Iroquois Club on Friday.

The North Side Negro Elks play at Ingomar at 6:30 this evening.

Open Playoff In Detail

four hit the back and bounced an inch away. Burke's second putt was an inch wide and they were all even.

Hole No. 13, 146 yards; par 3. Von Elm's tee shot hit the left trap. He hit his out too squarely and it rolled over the green to another trap. His third was just on. 18 feet from the pin. His putt was two inches short and he got a bad 5. Burke's drive was 15 feet away, his first putt three inches wide, and he got a 3 to go, two shots ahead again.

Hole No. 14, 416 yards, par 4—Von Elm was on and 17 feet to the right with his second. Burke's second landed in the deep right rough, but he whacked out two inches from the pin for his 4. George's putt was four inches wide.

Hole No. 15, 441 yards, par 4—Burke hooked his tee shot sharply and it landed atop a bunker. Von Elm was straight 280 yards. Billy tried a spoon from his bad downhill lie and sliced it to the side of the creek. It almost went in. His third went on the green. Von Elm sailed a pretty spoon shot on and 20 feet from the cup for his second. Burke's fourth was five feet past and he needed two putts for a 6. Von Elm had two easy putts for his 4 to square the fight.

Hole No. 16, 398 yards; par 4. Burke sailed his second 125 yards dead to with-in three feet of the pin. Von Elm's bounded 16 feet to the left. His first putt was a foot short. Bill got an easy birdie to go ahead a shot.

Hole No. 17, 404 yards; par 4. The drives were straight and about even. Von Elm derricked his second 10 feet hole high. Billy hooked his to the deep rough and then pitched prettily five feet past the cup, the ball almost going in, but missed the putt and got a 5. Von Elm's second putt was six inches long and he squared the match.

WOLGAST HELD IN PHILLY

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(AP.)—It appears that Midget Wolgast, recognized flyweight champion in New York and Pennsylvania, will be unable to defend his title in a 15-round fight Friday night in the Coney Island Stadium.

Wolgast and two companions are in jail facing charges by Rose Manara, 19, Atlantic City, that they held her prisoner in the boxer's apartment for two weeks. They were arrested after a raid by police.

Wolgast, court officials intimated, will not be placed on trial until next week, and would thus be unable to keep his engagement to meet Ruby Bradley, Holyoke, Mass., Negro, Friday. The charge he is facing offers no freedom on bail.

GRAYS, BLACKSOX SPLIT

SHARON, Pa., July 6.—The Homestead Grays split their doubleheader here today with the Baltimore Blacksox, the eastern-ers winning the first game, 2 to 0, and the Grays copping the second, 1 to 0. About 1,500 fans attended the conflicts.

The Homestead Grays and the Baltimore Blacksox bring their six-game series to a close with a night game at Charleroi tonight. It will be played on the field of the Charleroi Middle Atlantic League Club.

U. S. NET STARS IN PARIS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—(AP.)—With the close of the 1931 Wimbledon championships of upsets and accidents, the tennis stars of 20 nations have left England, a few with titles, some with wounds, and many with alibis.

The American Davis Cup team went to Paris for a fortnight of rest and practice before playing the Davis Cup interzone final two weeks hence. Frank Shields' injured knee, which forced him to default his Wimbledon singles final match with Sidney Wood, was mending rapidly.

The British Davis Cup team left for Prague, where the Britons play Czechoslovakia in the final of European zone competition. The injury Fred Perry received in play here last week has proved to be of minor character.

United States players captured three of the five Wimbledon titles.

Johnny Freeman vs. John Parker, 10 rounds, and Johnny Carpenter vs. Johnny Belmont and Rush Heiser vs. Jack Smith, 8 rounds each, and Babe Beck vs. Billy Sorlaks and Jack Hooster vs. Battling Murray, 6 rounds each, Columbus, O.

Mose Butch, chunky southpaw bantamweight biffer, of Oakland, steps out into the Big Time of boxing tonight when he meets Eugene Huat, of France, former flyweight champion of Europe, in the 10-round main bout at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

It will be Mose's first big chance to gain ring fame. He landed this match by knocking out Harry Fierro, of Chicago, in the first round of a recent semi-final at the Bowl, the finishing punch being one of the cleanest scored here in a long time. He recently defeated Marty Gold, Philadelphia veteran, at Hickey Park to atone for an earlier technical knockout defeat by the latter, caused by an injured eye which induced the referee to halt the bout. Mose is the former National junior amateur bantamweight champion.

Huat arrived in town yesterday, accompanied by his manager, the famous Gus Wilson, former trainer of Georges Carpentier and later of Jack Dempsey, who revealed the fact that Eugene is matched to box Pete Sanstol at Montreal, July 29, for the right to oppose Al Brown, Negro holder of the world bantamweight title, in the same city on August 26. Huat already has boxed Brown, as well as Ernie Jarvis, Spider Pladner and other famous foes, and is an international topliner in his division.

Fierro returns for the eight-round semi-final tonight against Marty Gold. In the two six-rounders, Benny Goldblatt meets U. S. Carpentier and Anson Green engages Rosy Baker. The first bout is scheduled for 8:45.

Between Rounds

Buck McTiernan, Swissvale middleweight, returned to town yesterday from Huntington, W. Va., where he says he was the victim of a trick referee's decision in his 10-round bout with Donald Fagg, of Clinton, Ind., Saturday night. Buck says he won handily all the way and that all he wants is a chance to get Fagg into the ring with him again to demonstrate that he is the latter's master. He resumes training today for his postponed battle with Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, in the windup at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night.

Charles Jacoby, of 5342 Brown place, has taken up the management of a string of boxers and has them ready for engagements at the local clubs. They include Cafe Columbaba, 165-pound Porto Rican, who has boxed Frank Moody, Gene Stanton, Frank Florian, Frank Monroe and Harold Searsey, among others; Long Tom Williams, Negro heavyweight, remembered for his two bouts with George Panka here, and Jackie Griffith, local Negro lightweight, who has boxed Battling Gizzy, Mickey Duris, Peaches Gallagher, Johnny Michaels, Tommy Hileman, Tiger Joe Clark, Sol Lippo, Johnny Brown, Jack Bamy, Frankie Portland, Joey Bazzone and others.

Johnny Edwards and Happy Atheton fought a 10-round draw at Charleston, W. Va., Saturday night.

Accident to Keep Twenty Grand Idle

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—The World-Telegram says Twenty Grand, Mrs. Payne Whitney's 3-year-old champion, wrenched his back in his easy gallop to victory in the Dwyer stakes at Aqueduct Saturday and will be out of racing for at least a month.

The accident will keep Twenty Grand out of the $75,000 Arlington classic at Arlington Park July 18 and may prevent his appearance in the Travers stakes at Saratoga August 22, the paper said.

RACE PROMOTER IS ARRESTED

CINCINNATI, July 6.—(AP.)—Brown Lewis, manager of the Cincinnati-Hamilton Speedway, who said his home was in Detroit, was arrested yesterday and placed in jail here, charged with having issued a false check. The warrant was sworn to by representatives of the American Automobile Association.

Patrons who had intended to witness automobile races at the speedway yesterday found a sign announcing the races had been called off.

The association insists that the prize money to be paid to the drivers be put up beforehand. They charged Lewis gave them a cashier's check on a Kansas City bank, but that the bank said the check had not been issued there. The association withdrew its sanction and the drivers refused to race.

KOSTIK BEATEN IN 19-HOLE BATTLE

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Sinking a birdie 3 on the nineteenth hole after he had been tied by John Kostik at 80 for 18 holes, Frank Podmilsak today won the playoffs for third place in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph fourth annual junior golf championship at Schenley Park. Kostik's bid for a birdie 3 on the nineteenth hole stopped at the very lip of the cup.

Winston Wertz, of Beaver Valley, was third with an 81. Samuel Nelesnik was fourth with a 90, Arthur Tobias was fifth with a 92, and George Brannigan, Jr., and Bernard Guntner failed to return cards. The cards:

Andy Petrolio, caddiemaster at Schenley, was the referee in the playoffs and as a result of Todmilsak's victory he will receive an iron club and a silver medal. Winston Wertz, who finished in third place in the playoffs, also is a member of the Beaver Valley Country Club caddie team, which placed second in that competition.

Three other boys, who had 70s, will play for fourth prize on the same field of action Wednesday morning. They are William Smith, Dave Wilson and Tom Madden.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, Helen MacDonald, of Chicago, internationally famous woman professional, is to give an exhibition from the first tee at the Schenley Park municipal links under the supervision of Professional Bob Graham. A number of her friends and admirers who saw her give a demonstration at a downtown department store last winter are expected to be on hand.

Racer Kills Father Of Fellow Driver

OIL CITY, Pa., July 6.—Lewis B. Perry, 55, was almost instantly killed at Clarion auto races Saturday, when he stepped onto the track, starting for the car of his son, Leverne Perry, forced out on account of trouble. Another racer struck the elder Perry, and he was ground beneath the wheels, both legs being nearly torn off and his skull fractured. The son escaped injuries in his own mishap.

George Shaner, Conesville, O., won the 100-mile race. Ray Caldwell, New Castle, was second; Joe Catone, Struthers, O., third; Jack McFadden, Philadelphia, fourth, and Joe Sholnick, New Kensington, fifth.

Columbia Gas May Get New Outlets for Its Natural Gas

Considerable comment is heard among public utilities regarding the future outlets for natural gas of Columbia gas and Electric. It is pointed out that subsidiaries of the Niagara Hudson Power Company will take the product if permission can be obtained from the Public Service Commission and many are confident that favorable action will be taken though it is still several months away. In addition, it is understood in some quarters that public service officials are studying the gas needs in its territory and may decide to use natural gas supplied by the Columbia Gas organization.

Important interests have resumed activities in Woolworth and the stock seems to be one of the speculative favorites. Part of the trader following has been attracted because of unconfirmed rumors that something "special" will be done for stockholders at a meeting this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday. A strong group has been operating in the issue for some weeks.

Quite a few interests believe that some of the money which was distributed as dividends and interest at the beginning of this month will find its way back into stocks because of the attractive yields obtainable on some issues. It is argued that even with allowing for further dividend reductions in a number of issues, the investor today can establish a long position which will give an excellent return with the lower distributions and still be in a position to profit by enhancement of principal, once conditions have definitely turned for the better.

Industrial authorities insist that Wall street has been overlooking the important steps which have been taken to re[illegible]s in various lines. It is pointed out that the efficiency of workers and the economies which have been put into effect have placed a new and solid foundation under industry generally, which will be reflected in many ways later on.

Relief for the railroads in the freight rate situation will not come as soon as many had hoped. This is indicated by the fact that hearings will be begun July 15 and adjournment will be taken thereafter until August 31. Naturally, this means that the roads will have to wait until fall for higher rates. Meanwhile, opposition to the proposed increase in freight charges is developing from various shipping sources.

Scale support was in evidence in the market during recent reactions. It is not known definitely whether this demand came from those who had been active on the long side previously, or whether it represented the covering of shorts by traders who were successful in picking the top. However, there is not much doubt that the action of the market gave encouragement to those who have been on the bull side for the past month or five weeks. Any favorable outside development is likely to find group operations resumed in some of the favorites on a rather heavy scale.

BERLIN MARKET SELLS OFF

BERLIN, July 6.—For a time it looked like another black day on the Stock Exchange today, but the session ended less disastrously than had been feared because of a prevailing conviction that international credits shortly maturing would be extended.

After the official hours the recovery which set in toward the close progressed, but without recouping the day's losses.

It is regarded as certain here that the central banks will prolong the $100,000,000 credit to the Reichsbank, which is likely to ask for an additional grant.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—It was reported in Wall street today that the German Reichsbank planned to make use of the $50,000,000 gold credit granted several years ago by a group headed by the International Acceptance Bank of New York to the German Gold Discount Bank, which about a year ago became a subsidiary of the Reichsbank.

PARIS, July 6.—(AP.)—The Bourse was affected today by heaviness on the German exchange. Saturday despite news of a nominal war debts agreement between France and the United States. The market was heavy and inactive at the close.

LONDON, July 6.—(AP.)—Delay in the debt negotiations at Paris left the stock exchange quiet this morning with a slight easing of German and Austrian bonds and on the trans-Atlantic favorites.

The outstanding feature of the close was the extreme weakness of German bonds on the uncertain outlook of the debt negotiations.

CUBAN EXPORT SUGAR SOLD

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—Some 157,000 tons of the 260,000 tons of sugar segregated by the national sugar exporting corporation of Cuba and intended for sale this year already have been sold at a price in excess of the basis on which bonds of the exporting corporation were issued.

This was disclosed after a conference of members of the exporting corporation with Thomas L. Chadbourne.

Members of the corporation said there was every reason to believe that the portion of this sugar remaining unsold will be disposed of at a price which will more than take care of the principal and interest of the bonds issued against this year's quota of the segregation.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Raw sugar was easy early today under more liberal offerings and a rather indifferent demand. Prices declined 1-32 of a cent to the basis of 3.42, with a sale confirmed of 36,000 bags of Philippines for late July arrival at this level.

Refined was unchanged at 4.65c for fine granulated, with a good withdrawal demand, but no new business.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 6.—Disappointment at the failure to reach a debt agreement over the holiday week-end was reflected in a heavy tone on the Curb Market today. Prices sagged at the opening, but slow recovery ensued. The undertone, however, remained soggy and volume dropped back to nominal proportions.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Losses Cut — Local Market Steady

STOCK MARKET SLUMPS THEN HEADS UP

Losses of 1 to 6 Points, Made in Early Sales, Cut as Selling Eases

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—Wall street began the post-holiday week wearily today, although sentiment improved a little after mid-day.

The stimulant of an announcement over the week-end of a Franco-American war debt agreement had been expected, and the financial markets reflected considerable disappointment in the continued dragging on of negotiations. Share prices fell back weakly at the opening, but made partial recovery in extremely sluggish trading later. Bonds drifted uncertainly.

Losses in shares ranged from 1 to 6 points during the morning, but selling soon dried up, and after mid-day several issues showed recoveries of a point or so.

International banking circles discussed further extensions of credit to Germany, as the delay in reaching an accord on the Hoover plan has tended to impair its influence in restoring confidence, and the seepage of funds away from Berlin has continued. It was reassuring, however, that the hurried calling of a special session of the general council of the Reichsbank over the week-end did not result in suspension of the 40 per cent level for the bank's legal reserve.

The return this week of currency put out for the mid-year settlements is expected to mitigate the credit stringency somewhat, although day to day loans are quoted from 9 to 11 per cent as contrasted to 1½ per cent in New York.

Apparently the stock market was depressed at the start by selling of shares bought late last week in expectation of announcement of a debt accord over the week-end.

Second quarter earnings statements are to make their appearance in some volume this month, and, although they are not now expected to be so gloomy as estimates of a few weeks ago indicated, they will at least hamper bullish efforts, barring fresh constructive news not now in sight.

Credit remained extremely plentiful, with outside call loans offered at 1 per cent.

Fair Demand in Electrical Marts

NEW YORK, July 6.—Electrical equipment continues to meet a fair demand in the country's markets, Electrical World reports. Although trading activity in the past week subsided somewhat from the stimulating effect of the debt holiday plan, current sales in principal centers point to a growing interest in a large variety of materials.

Curtiss Airplane Gets Navy Order

NEW YORK, July 6.—Curtiss Airplane and Motor Company has received a $443,235 navy contract involving 30 observation planes.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 6.—Influenced by moratorium uncertainties and by stock market weakness, as well as by by movement of domestic winter wheat, grains underwent early setbacks today. Wheat reached a new bottom price record since 1896. Opening 1/8 to 7/8c off, wheat later held near the initial range. Corn started 1/2 to 7/8c lower and continued to sag.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 6.—Cotton opened barely steady today, 17 to 21 points lower. July contracts sold off to 9.96c and December to 10.50c under the initial parity, but the offerings were not heavy and the market held fairly steady at net declines of about 17 to 23 points at the end of the first half hour.

The market was comparatively quiet later in the morning. Offerings were light after the early selling had been absorbed and orders, later seemed to be pretty evenly divided, with the market holding within a narrow range. At midday prices showed net declines of 18 to 21 points, with July selling around 9.96c and December 10.55c.

Holding Firms Report.
Insight to 'Trust' Deals.
Lehman Figures Scanned.

By Wall Street Spectator

NEW YORK, July 6.

INVESTORS AND traders who have heard so much of "investment trust selling" and "investment trust buying" during the last six months to account for the rise and fall of individual stocks, now have an opportunity to discover the accuracy of such statements, in the holding company reports now making their appearance.

Therefore, the first half-year report of operations of the Lehman Corporation, one of the leaders in this field, is worthy of more than casual perusal.

THE PORTFOLIO holdings disclose some rather surprising eliminations and reductions from those at the beginning of the year, and in the opinion of usually well-posted observers, this is taken to indicate the management is adjusting the trust's position in line with old-fashioned relationships of price and value.

In the period from December 31, 1930, to June 30 last, holdings of the following stocks were either eliminated or reduced: American Can, American and Foreign Power, American Radiator, American Telephone, Coca Cola, Coty, DuPont, Eastman Kodak, Electric Bond and Share, Gimbel, International Nickel, Liggett & Myers, National Dairy Products, Paramount, Radio-Keith and Union Carbide.

At the same time the company added to its holdings of American Tobacco B, Collins & Aikman, Commonwealth and Southern, Consolidated Gas, Drug, Inc., General Electric, General Motors, Hershey Chocolate, Kroger Grocery, Lorillard, North American, Pacific Lighting, Reynolds Tobacco B and United Gas Improvement.

THE SEVERE decline in commodity prices that has taken place during the past six months, may necessitate some revisions of ideas as to normal earning power, according to economic students.

It is held that even though the volume of business recovers to the 1929 level, many companies may be unable to earn as much because of the lower general level of commodity prices.

Business Associations Expand Activities

WASHINGTON, July 6. — (AP.) — Trade associations have increased their membership 25 per cent and their income 73 per cent during the last 10 years.

This was shown in a study made public by the trade association department of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Philip P. Gott, manager of the department, said the survey was the most complete one ever made, covering 416 associations having a combined membership of more than 360,000.

"In 1930," he said, "the average net decline in income as compared with 1929 was 3 per cent for national associations, somewhat more in the case of state and regional associations.

"The year 1930 closed with an average net loss of members by 302 national associations of 1 per cent and 114 state and regional associations also of 1 per cent.

Membership Above 1928

"ESTIMATES FOR THE first quarter of 1931, based on partial returns, record a further average net loss of about one-half of 1 per cent. On this basis, in spite of these losses, total combined membership is now greater than in 1928.

"Some associations record striking gains, but not all fared well. In this composite picture are associations which operated in 1930 on as little as one-third of the 1929 income, and also those which had twice the funds in 1930 as in 1929. The same is true of membership.

"Comparing 1930 membership with 1929, of the individual associations 21 per cent have held about steady, 48 per cent show net losses. Net gains in membership are reported by 31 per cent. Gains of 10 to 20 per cent are frequent, while some associations more than doubled their membership. The average change in membership for the entire group by associations is a small loss, namely 1 per cent."

Store Delivery Survey

A STUDY OF DEPARTMENT store delivery service is planned by the Commerce Department.

Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, said the survey had been requested by the National Retail Dry Goods Association which will co-operate with the department.

"The question of retail delivery—its cost, benefits and drawbacks to both merchant and consumer," Dr. Surface said, "is recognized as one of the vital points bearing upon the efficient and economic distribution of merchandise in the country today.

"The delivery service survey if designed to bring about the basic facts of the subject on a broader basis than has ever been done in the past, and in a form which will aid the individual merchant to gauge the relative value and effectiveness of his own delivery policies."

The survey will be nation-wide. Department, dry goods and specialty stores in representative cities will be queried.

RAYON DEMAND IMPROVES

Demand for products of the rayon industry for the first half of this year compares favorably with the volume of business done in the corresponding part of 1930, according to the Bank of America, N. A., which, in a survey of the industry, points out that demand was unusually heavy in April and May and that in certain lines some plants have recently been reported to be operating at a rate not far from full capacity. The bank asserts that producers' stocks are estimated to have been reduced by more than one-half since the beginning of the year and that current supplies are now below normal.

The bank says:

"Present improvement in business activity in the rayon industry is largely due to a cut in prices made early in the year. While this reduction is said to have put quotations on a level so low as to permit little or no profit to producers, it released a very considerable volume of buying. Business in rayons began to improve almost immediately upon the establishment of the lower level and the volume of sales in January and February was well above the turnover in the corresponding months of 1930. Business declined slightly in March, but made a pronounced increase in April and May.

"Increased activity in the cotton goods trade, with an accompanying increase in the demand for rayon from that industry, and the fact that rayon has been adopted as the material to be used exclusively for lining by one of the most important makers of men's clothing, account for most of the gain in rayon sales."

Gillette Hearings Postponed Again

BOSTON, July 6.—Hearings before Judge Prest as master in the suit of certain stockholders against the directors of Gillette Safety Razor Company, which were scheduled to commence this morning after a series of postponements, have been again postponed until Wednesday.

Expects Larger Grain Movement

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—Five thousand surplus freight cars have been accumulated by the Missouri Pacific on its rails throughout the wheat belt for use in moving the 1931 wheat crop, J. Cannon, vice president in charge of operations, has announced. This number will be increased to approximately 7,000 by the time the new grain starts moving. Cannon said:

"We expect the grain movement to start about June 25 and to reach its peak about July 10. Most recent estimates place this year's wheat crop on our lines at 36,408 cars. The actual movement last year was 30,587 cars."

COAL OUTPUT SHOWS GAIN

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Total production of soft coal during the week ended June 27 is estimated at 6,742,000 net tons, according to the Bureau of Mines. Compared with the preceding week, this is an increase of 107,000 tons, or 1.6 per cent. Production in the week in 1930 corresponding with that of June 27 amounted to 7,995,000 tons.

Production during the present calendar year to June 27 amounts to 187,248,000 net tons, compared with 227,149,000 tons in the like 1930 period, and 253,996,000 in 1929.

Inventor Elected By Gray Board

NEW YORK, July 6.—The board of governors of the Gray Processes Corporation, holder of patents on gasoline cracking processes, has elected A. McDowell Gray president, filling the vacancy caused by the death of his brother, Thomas T. Gray. A. McDowell Gray for the past 30 years has been associated with the oil refining business nad has obtained numerous equipment patents pertaining to the industry.

London Rubber Stocks Decrease

LONDON, July 6.—Crude rubber stocks here decreased 271 tons last week to 82,170 tons. Liverpool stocks increased 436 tons during the week to 54,522 tons.

Demand for Fall Goods Develops

NEW YORK, July 6.—Orders for fall goods gained considerable headway in the New York wholesale markets during the past week and while a fair volume of purchases for midsummer merchandise to fill in stocks developed, the total dropped off from the previous week. Bathing apparel, low-priced sports wear, fabric handbags and pajamas were prominent in the orders for promotional goods.

Corporate Financing Recedes in June

NEW YORK, July 6.—Corporate stock and bond financing in June was substantially smaller than in any previous month this year, except February, a compilation by Standard Statistics shows. The total for the month was $291,400,000, compared with $456,100,000 in May and $768,600,000 in June last year. Bonds to the amount of $260,900,000 made up 88 per cent of the month's total.

California Crude Oil Output Down

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—California crude oil output during the week ended July 4 averaged 310,145 barrels daily, a decrease of 8,200 barrels daily from the previous week, according to California Oil World.

WAR DEBT FATE RULES COURSE OF MARKET

Management Senses Need Of Positive Leadership; Action Held Safe, Timely

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 6.—The fate of the proposed international debt holiday dominated the course of the speculative markets last week, which became temporarily adamant to near-term business developments.

As a matter of fact, if it had not been for the Hoover gesture the public might have become acutely discouraged by the sharp contraction of—to say the least—seasonal proportions in general business activity. The total volume of trade is near the low ebb reached last December.

Mr. Rukeyser

Although tangible trade is still discouraging the intangible influences are becoming increasingly significant management throughout the world—both economic and political—has sensed the need for positive leadership to turn the tides, and tends to believe that deflation has already gone so far that courageous action is safe and timely.

As far as the domestic situation is concerned, the main improvement has been in goods moving immediately into consumption. Stores throughout the country have succeeded in increasing consumer buying by dramatizing price declines. Some groups of stores which have had exceptional success have passed along price declines in wholesale markets almost immediately, and have also kept up their inventories to normal levels.

With inventories in the hands both of wholesalers and retailers for the most part subnormal, it is obvious that when a change in sentiment really comes, the turnabout can be fairly mercurial.

BISHOP DENIES HAYS CHARGE

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches, renewed today the controversy between his organization and Will H. Hays, making public a letter denying that the Rev. George Reid Andrews ever had been in the employ of the council.

His statement was contained in a reply to Hays' letter of last week, replying to the council's critical report of the Hays organization, the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. The bishop said:

"Since you appear to attach considerable importance to a letter from Mr. George Reid Andrews to you in 1926 in which he made certain proposals concerning the disposition of 10 per cent of the income from the film, 'The King of Kings,' it becomes necessary to remind you that the letter from Mr. Andrews to you was a personal one for which the Federal Council had no responsibility whatever and about which, so far as I am able to learn, the officers" of the council had no knowledge. Mr. Andrews was not then, nor has he ever been, in the employ of the Federal Council."

AIR 'RATE WAR' ON IN WEST

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—(AP.)—A "rate war" was in prospect today with the opening of the Century Pacific Airlines between San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco, with a fare cheaper than the combined railroad passenger and Pullman rates.

Century, which plans to operate with five planes each way a day, has announced a one-way rate between Los Angeles and San Francisco of $18.95. This compares with the rail fare of $17.04, with added Pullman rates of $3.60 for an upper or $4.50 for a lower berth, and with the previous air rate of $25.

Officials of Transcontinental and Western Air, and Pacific Air Transport, two pioneer competing lines, announced they would meet the reduction.

14 Lawyers Accused Of Bribing Prosecutor

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—Fourteen lawyers were before Referee Shearn today to answer charges of unethical practices in paying "gratuities" to John C. Weston, former prosecutor in Women's Court, in consideration of his "laying down" on cases.

Weston was to have been given a hearing also, but his case was removed from the docket when he resigned.

Kitty Is Offered Stage Job By Theatrical Man

CHAPTER IX.

I held my breath and it seemed as though I could hear my heart beat!

The nerve of Peter Thompson to ask Thad Parsons if his intentions toward me were honorable!

What if they were not? Didn't Peter think that I could, and would, take care of myself?

It seemed an age before Thad answered Peter's question.

"Are you engaged to Miss Mason?" Thad asked, gravely.

Oh, why didn't he answer Peter's question? Why didn't he do as Peter had done, say that he loved me?

"No," Peter answered. "I'm not actually engaged to her—are you?"

"I'll be equally frank—I am not—you see I haven't asked her yet."

He said "yet"—he meant that he intended to ask me! My heart gave an extra thump from joy!

"Kitty will have you all right—I can't blame her—but you see the way I feel, so many rich guys just fool around with a poor girl and I want her to be happy—that's why I asked you, why I threatened you."

"You are a pretty square young man—and I rather approve of all this, even though it is unusual. I assure you that my intentions are quite honorable. In fact, no one with other than honorable intentions would last five minutes with Kitty—she's that kind of a girl, you know."

"I know—you don't have to tell me that. What I meant was that I didn't want her to be broken-hearted."

Synopsis

Katherine Mason believes the chief object in every girl's life should be to play around and have a good time. She decides not to marry Peter Thompson, because he is poor, and she believes she has won Thad Parsons, a wealthy young society man. She leaves her department store job to be a model in a wholesale dress establishment. At a night club she overhears Peter demanding of Thad his intentions toward her.

Now Go On

STARTS ON NEW JOB

"I assure you," Thad said, with considerable feeling.

I got just a glimpse of them shaking hands and I fled around the corner and over to our table.

Thad appeared right after I got seated. I didn't see Peter at all. I suppose he left the place after that.

The orchestra started up and Thad arose. We began dancing. I expected that he would say something to me about Peter, but he did not. He laughed and joked as usual. All the time I was thinking of what he had said, "I haven't asked her yet." He would ask me—he had decided on proposing, else he wouldn't have put it that way to Peter.

And poor Peter—I felt sorrier than ever for him. I saw him in a new light—he was a regular fellow, a fine fellow—it was too bad that I had to make him feel so badly.

Thad did not propose that night. Perhaps he didn't think it quite the place. He spoke of another Saturday afternoon picnic before long and I promised not to fall over any more cliffs. He gave me a goodnight kiss and I went to bed to dream of him.

The first week working for Miers had been uneventful, but it had been delightfully easy. I didn't have to get down there until 10 o'clock. One day I didn't even have to get into any models, and the days that some of the other girls complained of as being very hard I thought easy enough.

"You ought to stand behind a counter all day," I told Viola Carson, one of the models who had been mighty nice to me from the start.

We would help to show model dresses on hangers, and when buyers were interested in any special model, one of us would put it on and appear in it. Mrs. Miers attended to the selection of the model; she seemed to know by instinct which type of girl would best set off a certain gown.

MEETS THEATRICAL MAN

It was during the second week that Molly came down from the store.

"Is there any chance for me here, Kitty?" she asked. "Gee, my dogs are killing me there in the store."

I didn't know, but did the very best thing. I took her in to see Mrs. Miers and told her about Molly.

"The first chance, I'll have Kitty send for you," she promised Molly. I assured her that Mrs. Miers wasn't putting her off, that she meant it, and Molly was delighted.

A few weeks later Molly got the chance and came to work. I didn't have the heart to tell her the truth, and it wasn't for her beauty—Molly was pretty enough in a way—but because she was rather plump and was used to show off the "stout" sizes.

With the easier work Molly began to look better than ever.

Once when Thad was there to take me home Viola was coming out with me and we squeezed her into the little car and dropped her off at her street. The next day Viola asked me bluntly how I happened to be chumming around with a rich society chap like Thad Parsons. I told her how we met and also admitted that I expected to marry him.

"Then I'm all for you, Kit," she said. "I didn't think you would be nit-wit enough to lose your head just because a man was rich and socially prominent."

From then on Viola Carson and I became great pals.

Sam Jacobs used to drop in to see Mrs. Miers, his sister. Now and then he would say, "got any swell lookers for me, Lena?"

"You can't come and steal my models, goniff," she would always answer. She must have seen my surprised look one day for she began to laugh.

"Sam here is in the show business, Kitty—" she started to explain.

Mr. Jacobs looked around at me. I had on a black and gold creation that I had just been showing a buyer. To my momentary alarm Mr. Jacobs rushed up to me.

"Where you been hiding all this time?" he demanded.

"Go away, Sam, you can't have her," Mrs. Miers scolded.

A NEW OFFER

He waved his hand at her as if to wave her away and into silence. To me he said:

"A hundred a week, any time you want to go on the stage, Miss!"

"What would I do on the stage?" I managed to ask.

"Nothing—positively nothing—just stand there and look swell, like this!"

Mrs. Miers was back of him and she shook her head at me.

"Thanks, I'm satisfied right here," I told him, but it wasn't really true. From that moment I was far from satisfied. Visions of what I could do with a hundred a week flitted around in my mind, visions of working a few hours on the stage and sleeping half the day, came to me.

At the time, however, Mr. Jacobs shrugged his shoulders at me and said, "Think it over, miss, think it over."

When he had gone Mrs. Miers came to me.

"Sam is a nice brother, mind you, but he's all the time looking for swell girls for his shows—a dozen models he's taken from me and believe me when I tell you the show business ain't so good for a girl—my daughter I'd never let go in a show.

It's a wonder that I didn't laugh at her, for Mrs. Miers had a daughter about my own age. She would weigh a hundred and eighty, if an ounce, and half of it seemed to be in her legs and ankles.

A few days later Sam Jacobs was in the establishment again. He merely nodded when he saw me sliding dresses along the steel rods on hangers for some buyer from Michigan, and then he looked around and came over to me.

"There's the list," he said, in a businesslike tone of voice, but the way he winked at me was positively funny. He slipped me an envelope and pranced away toward the office.

A little later I got a chance to read it. It was typewritten on "Jacobs Productions" stationery, and read:

"I wasn't fooling about the hundred a week. Rather than have so much argument with my sister, I said no more. If you want to go on the stage, come and have a talk with me. I won't eat you up. Bring along your mother or somebody if you are one of the fool girls who think all theatrical men are ogres or something worse—come after you get through work any night, I'm always in my office late."

JACOBS EXPLAINS

That set my head in a whirl again.

I supposed Mrs. Miers would be terribly angry at me if I left her, but I couldn't see losing a hundred a week, and the stage seemed such an easy life.

I didn't mention this at home. Sister Cora would have thrown a couple of fits over it, and even father would have objected to that, but if I just went ahead and took the job then I could square things at home.

I told Viola about it and showed her the note.

"Well, for cryin' out loud—you grab it, Kitty," she advised.

A couple of nights later I took Viola along with me and visited Sam Jacobs in his office.

"If you can convince me, Mr. Jacobs," I said, "that a girl who can't do a step of stage dancing and can't sing the scale and can't act, can draw a hundred a week, then I'll sign right on the dotted line for you."

"Good! Then you're hired!" he exclaimed.

"But what do I do?" I insisted.

"You don't do a thing—you don't have to. When I seen you in the little gold dress I knew plenty—here," and he brought out some photographs of stage tableaux.

"Like that—see?"

He indicated a group of girls posing as statues!

"But—but what do I wear?" I cried.

"Wear?" That's it, you don't have to even have clothes—you don't wear a thing!"

DAILY SHORT STORY

I Laugh!

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Artist's Wife Elopes With Former Sweetheart

Sometimes, when I get to thinking of things, I laugh.

I laugh so that I slop gin on my red kimono, if any of my gentlemen friends think to bring along a bottle, which they mostly do.

It is about a sort of a joke on my twin sister, Vi.

Few could tell us apart when we were kids. I guess they could have told us apart easily enough if they could have been mind-readers.

So many people used to say, "Are you Beatrice or Vivian?"

Sometimes I'd say I was Vivian, but not if some of my sporty friends got puzzled, because if I'd say I was Vivian then they'd chin a few minutes and go their way or else say, "Where's Bee?"

Vivian never cared for petting parties and it didn't take my friends long to find that out.

Sometimes some of the boys would get a smack that surprised them and I don't mean a kiss. I mean a smack on the jaw. That would be when some boy friend of mine would think Vi was me, and start a little pashy petting.

Vi never said anything at home. She was no tattle tale, but she would give me a good bawling out all right.

It got so that I had to be darn careful and after a while I would wear a special ring, slip it on when I went out. You see, the trouble was, mother was so proud of us and she always made us dress alike. Right up to the time I was married we dressed alike.

We used to go to Barnacle Cove every summer. There was a family hotel there—Gawd, how I hated that hotel! I used to call it the Old Ladies' Home.

DISAPPOINTED WITH COLONY

Vi liked the quiet, but it got on my nerves and I used to have an awful time fixing up lies and alibis to get away for a ride with some boy friend who would drive down.

Below the Cove was an artist colony.

I'd read a lot about artists, stories of what gay chaps they were and how they were always having love affairs and getting girls to pose for them. I used to take walks down there hoping to meet some of those gay artists. I might find one who would be like the artists in stories, ready for a good time.

The colony was a washout—there were artists there, plenty of them. A lot of old maids who painted sea cliffs that looked like a heap of chocolate fudge, and a lot of grizzled men with glasses who painted tumble-down fish houses and especially the skeletons of wrecked ships. They were mostly wrecks themselves.

Now and then Vi would go down there with me because it was a swell place to walk on the path along the edge of the cliff, and she could get all the kick and thrill she seemed to need out of books or scenery or taking a walk.

And believe me, I was sore one day when Vi came back from a walk and told mother that an artist had accosted her and wanted to paint her.

It would be just my tough luck not to get a break like that. I was twice as sore when mother asked Vi about him and she said he was a handsome man, she guessed he might be 30.

RICH ARTIST

This artist's name was Thorne, Albert R. Thorne—Vi got a kick out of it because his initials spelled ART. He came to see mother about it. It was just my luck to have sneaked down to the village that afternoon to meet Wally Baxter. I didn't dare meet him over at his bungalow because there were plenty of old gossips who would have told his wife. Wally wasn't living with his wife.

Well, mother, for a wonder, approved of this Mr. Thorne and agreed that Vi might sit for him. Mother used to go with Vi at first, but later she often didn't go.

He was the first man Vi ever said two kind words about. She began to talk about him all the time—"Mr. Thorne says this" and "Mr. Thorne does that" until I knew well enough she was getting goofy about him.

Then I got another jolt—and it sure did make me sore. I learned that this Albert R. Thorne, while being a really clever artist, didn't have to paint pictures any more than I had to stand on my head to get along. He had money—stacks of it!

Yes, sir, Wally Baxter told me about it. Wally really envied him. He said this Mr. Thorne was crazy about art and had a city home full of pictures worth millions. Wally said that he'd been told that Mr. Thorne's money was handled by a big firm of lawyers—his investments and things—and that he didn't think Mr. Thorne really knew how much money he did have.

But I got a swell break, not that I'm hard-hearted. I wasn't glad that Vi was taken sick, of course, but it offered me a chance. Mother told me to go down and tell Mr. Thorne that Vi was sick.

I went to his place, and say, it was a little palace— an awfully swell place.

"Right on time, Miss Vivian," he said.

I gave him my best come-on smile and didn't tell him that I was Bee, not Vivian.

I saw the painting, about half done, and saw that Vi was wearing a black drape so that it showed one bare shoulder. I went into the room and removed enough so I could show my shoulder and put on the drape. Mr. Thorne began to arrange it for me and I didn't lose a trick. I wanted that man because he had money and I could always use plenty of money. He wasn't a bad looker, but he was too darn serious.

Well, I'm no dumbbell. Even today they say I've got a certain charm, and they say I must have been a corker when I was a kid.

God, I'm only 26 now and they say to my face, thinking they're complimenting me, that I don't look a minute over 40.

I got this Mr. Albert R. Thorne madly in love with me on the third time I posed. I told mother he had asked me to take Vi's place. Poor Vi was too sick to know, but she talked a lot about Al in her delirium.

I got Al so madly in love with me that I confessed about being Beatrice instead of Vivian and he laughed and said it was all right if I would marry him.

Sure I would marry him, and I did. Poor Vi would look at me reproachfully, but she said nothing.

It was Wally Baxter who got sore, until I told him it was fifty-fifty—he had a wife, I had a husband, and what of it?

Mother died the next year and Al said I ought to have Vi come down with us to help her forget. She was all alone and came down. I was wise to her. She was straight as a string, but I wish she hadn't been, so I could have divorced him and got big alimony. But just the same, Vi loved him madly.

LAUNCH BURNED

Wally and I got so wild about each other we couldn't bear to be apart. And then Vi found out.

How she did scold me! She cried over it and she stormed and she cursed for the first time in her life—she cursed me for being a wicked woman when I had the most adorable man in the world, and I laughed at her.

Wally got some extra money and we had a hunch. He would book passage for us under different names, and we would sail for some island he knew in the South Seas.

But he was clever. We got his little launch and I packed some of Vi's things in Vi's suitcase, things I didn't want, Vi's monogramed toilet set, and her clothes, and so on.

Wally and I took the launch off the half-moon reef one foggy morning, ran it on the reef, set fire to it and went ashore in a dory, letting the dory go out with the tide. We beat it to New York and hid until our boat sailed, which was four days.

And what do you think? That night Al's place burned and he was so badly hurt he was blinded. The papers were full of it, and they had interviews with me—get that, me! That was Vi. She knew I had gone with Wally.

And along with this came the finding of what was left of Wally's launch and Vi's suitcases. So it was reported that Wally Baxter and Vivian Harte, sister of Mrs. Albert R. Thorne, lost their lives when the launch burned and that from all indications Miss Harte had planned to elope with Mr. Baxter.

Wasn't that a wow!

Well, we got to this island and Wally, the big stiff, got crazy over a native girl and some native man killed him. I was on the beach two years—God, what a life, the scum of the seven seas to throw you a dollar now and then! But a good-hearted mate of a freighter finally brought me back to 'Frisco.

MEETS SISTER

I got along better in Frisco, but my two years on the beach in the tropics had sort of taken the edge off my good looks.

One day a woman touched me and it was Vi!

She stared at me a long moment.

"If you tell Albert that you are alive, I shall kill you," she said. "You stole him from me in the first place."

"Forget it," I said, "but don't get snooty. You're livin' with him, aren't you? You're no better than me, then. You aren't his wife, even if he thinks so."

"He never thought so. Blind as he was, he knew, and as soon as he got his sight back he married me."

"But I ain't dead," I said, and what do you think that dumb sister said? She says, "As far as Albert and I are concerned you are dead!"

Then she hands me a roll of money that was a knockout.

Think of her meetin' me so accidentally like that—and think of her and Al saying that I'm dead!

Gee, I laugh.

I laugh sometimes so hard I slop gin all over my red kimono—that is, if any of the waterfront boys think to bring a bottle of gin when they call—which they do most always.

120,000,000,576 Chinese Pay Tribute to American!

WASHINGTON.—Congressman Frisby last night summoned the press and issued a statement announcing that he is a friend of humanity. Frisby unveiled a chair, which he called a "Seat of Honor with Stool to Match," which, he said, had been presented to him as a little gift of appreciation by the entire population of China. "I presume," said Frisby, as he officially placed a wreath of flowers over his shoulders, "that the chair, which I found on my front porch, is in recognition of my oft repeated plea that the Chinese language be adopted by all nations." Frisby is an ardent admirer of China, having recently bought a complete set.

Tennessee's Legislature has voted overwhelmingly against repeal of the anti-evolution law. This just about proves that there isn't any such thing as evolution.

A Model Report

Auditor General Waters Gives the Taxpayers a Clear Picture of the State's Finances.

Pennsylvania taxpayers interested in knowing how the Commonwealth receives and how it spends its revenues should read the pamphlet issued by Auditor General Charles A. Waters under the title, "A Decade of Pennsylvania Housekeeping." It is a model of clearness and simplicity, intended primarily for laymen not conversant with the technicalities of bookkeeping and accounting.

In reviewing the story of the state's finances during the last 10 years the first thing that strikes one is the enormous increase that has occurred in receipts and disbursements. The increase reflects prosperity and progress.

At the beginning of the decade on June 1, 1921, the state had a balance of $15,000,000 in the treasury. During the biennium immediately following the state received from all sources $200,000,000 and spent $195,000,000.

During the 1929-1931 biennium the state received $435,000,000 and spent $429,000,000, and on June 1 of the present year, when the new biennium started, had a balance of $80,000,000 in the treasury.

Gasoline and automobile taxes accounted in large part for the increase in receipts, and expenditures on road improvements for the increase in disbursements during the decade.

It seems incredible that the figures should continue to mount during the next decade as they did during the last. But if we had been told in 1921, when the cost of running the state government was about $100,000,000 a year, that it would be in excess of $200,000,000 in 1931, the statement might also have been incredible.

Frank W. Merchant

In the Death of the Veteran Newspaper Editor Pittsburgh Has Lost an Admirable Citizen.

In the death of Frank W. Merchant, assistant managing editor of the Post-Gazette, Pittsburgh has lost an admirable citizen.

He had been engaged in newspaper work here for more than 30 years, and in all that time his influence had always been thrown in favor of things that were good and clean and true.

Frank Merchant was quiet, unassuming and hard working. His modesty made the splendid traits of his character shine all the more brightly. None knew him well without liking him.

Value of Trees

Just One May Add Thousands of Dollars to the Market Price of a Piece of Property.

A Burgettstown woman sued the borough for damages for removing shade trees from in front of her home and was awarded $1,380 by a jury. The borough, contending it was ridiculous to place so high a valuation on a few shade trees, asked a new trial, but it has been refused.

This case recalls a transaction that occurred in Bedford County a few years ago. A man offered $10,000 for a farmhouse, but before the deal was consummated the owner of the property cut down for firewood a beautiful tree that stood on the lawn in front of the house. The man desiring the house thereupon cut down his offer to $5,000, saying he had valued the tree at $5,000.

It is no uncommon thing for wealthy persons to spend thousands of dollars in transplanting a single full-grown shade tree.

Even if one does not particularly admire trees, therefore, it may be profitable to plant them on one's property.

The Facts Are Known

President Hoover Enlightened Enough Now to Decide Wisely Two Philippine Problems He Faces.

President Hoover is sending Secretary Hurley to the Philippine Islands this summer that he may "acquaint himself more intimately with the details of Philippine problems."

Philippine problems facing the President are two:

To select a successor to Gov. Gen. Davis, who will resign his office at the end of the year, according to an announcement from the White House.

To formulate the policy of the administration toward the independence bill which will pass Congress at the next session, according to a forecast by Senator Bingham, chairman of the Senate Committee on Territories and Insular Affairs.

All the facts essential to wise solution of both problems are now in the possession of the President.

It is not necessary to send the Secretary of War or anybody else to Manila to get any more facts in regard to either problem.

In selecting a successor to Gov. Gen. Davis, the President must decide whether he wishes to appoint to that high office the American best qualified to serve the Philippine people, or the Republican most acceptable to Republican politicians.

In formulating his policy with respect to the forthcoming independence bill, the President must decide whether he will support or abandon the policy of his predecessor, who fearlessly faced the same challenge.

As President, Calvin Coolidge steadfastly supported the administration of Leonard Wood as Governor General of the Philippines, and selected as his successor the American he believed to be best qualified to carry out all of Leonard Wood's policies.

As President, Calvin Coolidge vetoed much the same sort of independence plebiscite act which came to him from the Philippine Legislature as Congress is expected to pass at its next session.

As President, Calvin Coolidge believed and had the courage to declare that "the people of the Philippine Islands have not as yet attained the capability of full self-government."

If President Hoover is sending Secretary Hurley to the Philippines to assure the Philippine people that the next Governor General will be the American best qualified to serve them, regardless of the views of Republican politicians, the Philippine people will rejoice in that assurance.

If President Hoover is sending Secretary Hurley to the Phillipines to assure the Philippine people that he has no intention of abandoning the Philippine policy of President Coolidge, the Philippine people will respect that decision.

President Hoover has facts enough now to enable him to decide wisely the two Philippine problems he faces.

And the American people hope that he will follow where these facts lead.

It Is Not a Primrose Path!

(Copyright, 1931.)

It is a weary, worn, dejected Uncle Sam that is being led by Prohibition down the NINE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLAR DEFICIT PATH.

Because of the Prohibition folly the loss in city, county, State and Federal revenues from excise taxes in 1930 was in excess of the deficit which the Treasury faces.

And when you add a $40,000,000 cost of the attempt to enforce Prohibition, Uncle's partnership with the person at his left costs the country the staggering total of $951,000,000.

Restoration of healthful light wines and harmless beer would aid Uncle. Not only would it increase his revenues, but would aid unemployment, and, above all, would check the steadily increasing use of poisonous bootleg liquor now flooding the country.

In the interest of TRUE TEMPERANCE this nation should bring back light wines and beer.

Pretty Girls of Today

And a Good Example from Asia.

THREE GIRLS, THREE SMILES, THREE CIGARETS

Women young and old wanted to be FREE and they ARE free. This picture proves it. Perhaps they have been free all the time and we simply didn't know it.

It is refreshing to look at the three little English girls, dressed up in modern clothing, and attending an exhibition for the benefit of the "Children's Holiday Fund."

They seem quite "carefree" and the young lady in the middle, you will notice, is wearing a contraption that combines eccentricity with modesty. You may be shocked by the "pajama dress," but in a high wind it has its advantages, if you want advantages of that kind.

The three smiles, the three dresses, the carefree expressions and the three cigarets are typical of the girls of our day.

Of course women should not smoke cigarets, until they are through having babies, for the nicotine from the cigarets of the smoking mother gets into the unborn baby's blood. However, that is old-fashioned, so never mind.

DIGNITY FROM ASIA. THE JAPANESE AMBASSADOR, WIFE AND DAUGHTER GOING TO COURT.

The second picture, you will agree, is more sedate, shows that our friend from Asia, particularly from Japan, set us a good example.

In that second picture you see the Japanese ambassador to England and his wife, Madame Matsudaira, and daughter, Mlle. Mairi Matsudaira.

These ladies, if you choose, are not quite as dashing as the three girls above, and the Japanese ambassador hasn't the carefree "worry go hang" look of a modern English boy in roomy trousers, and no hat.

But of one thing you may be sure. These sedate costumes worn by the family of the Japanese ambassador will survive and outlast our modern dress and modern manners.

Incidentally, you notice that the daughter of the Japanese ambassador is a remarkably handsome young lady, with a fine forehead, and a highly intelligent expression.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

When Man Is Most Attractive

I have been vainly looking around at a fashionable beach-club for those "fancy bathing suits" for men which the Paris fashion designers threatened to impose upon us some seasons ago.

* * *

The masculine heart-breakers of Deauville may have coquettishly adopted them; but as yet they have not reached America. And the moralists might have saved themselves all that flutter over the danger to the morale of the poor, weak women in the face of so much masculine sex appeal.

Just how fancy or "alluring" a masculine bathing suit might be it is hard to imagine. But it is safe to promise that no mere bathing suit will ever make a "temptation" out of the male form divine unless it reaches from the blue collar-button mark on his neck all the way down over his toes and elbows.

* * *

If there is any time when a man has NO "It," that time is when he is wearing a bathing suit. No fluttering ruffle or airy lover-knot above a knotty masculine knee could ever stir a woman's pulse or cause her heart to skip a beat. No candy-striped bathing suit could possibly make a pair of peeling shoulders seductive or a pair of sharp collar bones provocative.

* * *

Man, alas, is most attractive to women when he is all COVERED UP! When he is groomed and clothed and fresh from the hands of the barber, the tailor and the haberdasher.

The greatest shock of a romantic woman's life is her first sight of her "Prince Charming" in all the brutal frankness of a bathing suit. If anything could discourage a girl from marrying, it would be the vision of a lot of men lolling around in shorts, on a bathing beach.

* * *

By that same token, doubt it or not, the sight of a GIRL in her bathing suit has choked back the proposal of marriage fluttering in many a man's throat—and caused him to pause.

* * *

Even the most beautiful of women is a hundred times more alluring in flowing laces and satins than in the revealing bareness of a tight jersey bathing suit. The human form may be "divine"—but so are the hippopotamus-form and the kangaroo-form. Yet, they have no sex-appeal.

* * *

As for most women, they are romanticists and sentimentalists. Without love, tenderness and romance, sex has very little or no appeal for the normal woman. It is a woman's heart and vanity, not her head or her senses that are "weak."

* * *

And if any man is "dangerous" to the average woman, it is in spite of, not because, of his bathing suit. Let the woman-charmers of Deauville wear their baby-blue bathing suits: but the American man will continue to do his vamping in his dinner clothes.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 6.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and amazed how sleep changes one's viewpoint, having retired in melancholy. So walking about and saw Earl Benham, Eugene O'Neill, Alice Brady and Lee Olwell in the passing throngs and back to my chambers weary with the great heat.

Putting the electric fan on the floor of my workshop and highly amused at the dogs turning this way and that before it to cool off. Then working a while and with my wife to make a call but turned away by the monitory gesture of a constable who said there had been a murder in the building.

In the evening to a suburb to see the film "Skippy," which I have been tardy seeing, and blubbered out loud at one of the scenes. Back to the city and to Clara Walsh's, a jovial crowd there, the Lord Mayor and Amos 'n' Andy having just departed. Home and reading until nigh dawn.

For a strong brew of native coffee I often stop at a Turkish restaurant on upper Third avenue. Often in such havens one comes upon delightful cross currents of life—learned scholars with a gracious civility never found in more aristocratic areas. One valiant the other evening noticing on my table a borrowed volume—another borrower having my own copy—of Frank Norris' "McTeague." It set him off on literature. I could mention no book he had not read and could not discuss critically. And the classics he had read which I have never opened were highly accusing. He slices bread eight hours a day in a huge chain restaurant.

And you should have seen me the early a. m. I suddenly burst out crying about the domestic policy of the Peruvians.

CONQUERING MALARIA

By Archibald Henderson

The study of television, and efforts to accomplish it successfully, have been going on now for about half a century. One of the great difficulties has been the securing of the necessary high-powered illumination. In the system devised by Alexanderson, there are used seven different light sources. In this way, he claims that the useful illumination is multiplied 49 times.

True television has been secured by the invention of John Logie Baird. In this system the object to be transmitted is rapidly scanned by a light beam. As this beam moves in a series of closely-drawn parallel paths, the reproduced picture is made up of fine parallel lines. At the transmitting end a brilliant light is reflected from the image on to the photo-electric cell, which is especially designed and gives an instantaneous effect. The finely-drawn lines of light are swept across the image by revolving discs, and the different tone values give rise to corresponding variations in the transmitted current. At the receiving end this current varies and controls the light from a lamp placed behind a revolving disc similar to that at the transmitter.

According to Ellison Hawks, who gives this description in The Book of Electrical Wonders, a serious difficulty is the immense brilliance necessary in the moving point of light to provide the amount of light necessary to illuminate the ground-glass screen as it swept over it. During his early demonstrations in television, Baird had to subject his sitters to a painful and blinding glare of light in order to be able to transmit a recognizable image. He actually used a 1,000-candlepower lamp, with corresponding discomfort to the sitters. In the effort to overcome this difficulty, he first made experiments with televising objects in ordinary. Subsequently, it occurred to Baird to dispense with light and to use rays outside the visible spectrum.

At first, Baird experimented with ultra-violet rays, but the results were not satisfactory. Then he tried the infra-red rays at the other end of the spectrum, and met with success. As Hawks explains it, the invisible rays are employed in exactly the same way as ordinary visible light, that is to say, the scene is flooded with infra-red rays. The eye of the television transmitter then scans the scene, which is in total darkness as far as the human eye is concerned.

The infra-red rays affect the photo-electric cell in exactly the same way that light rays affect it, the current fluctuating according to the variations of the infra-red reflection from the different parts of the subject. In the received image red appears as white and blue as black, while smoke and vapor are semi-transparent. These differences are only to be expected, bearing in mind the fact that under infra-red rays the subject has different reflecting powers from those under light rays.

Baird then discovered that a person sitting before the transmitter could be seen in total darkness. The infra-red rays are invisible to the naked eye, but are readily detected by the sensitive electric eye of the television. From this discovery, Baird invented the system of "noctovision" associated with his name. This invention bids fair to prove of great importance in warfare, in navigation and in aviation.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Far Roses

Are you waiting, fragrant roses,
In my garden by the sea
As the day's bright flower closes,
Are you waiting there for me?

How I loved your petals lifted,
Roses red and roses white,
Where the sea-sweet breezes drifted
At the coming of the night!

Other gardens where I wander
Fling faint incense through the gloom;
But my sea-side garden yonder
Lures me with its subtler bloom.

Ah, in my garden-closes
Where I sometimes chance to rove,
Beauty dwells; but those far roses
Breathe dear memories of love!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you so lazy that you permit other people to suggest the opinions you advance?

Instead of reading and studying and forming your own conclusions after possible discussions with others, do you omit study and copy outright?

It might be a good thing for you to do a little hard thinking now.

It takes will power to get back to the ground you once had.

Your brain, with exercise, is capable of the highest degree of service.

Thinking, weighing, forming conclusions and then debating them from all angles with the idea of formulating new ideas will be found a good practice.

Normal human beings can form sound opinions based on good logic.

They may not coincide with the opinions of others—but may be original.

But conclusions formed from your own thoughts are more beneficial to you than the copy of another person.
